Edited by MARY WRIGHT-DAVIS

THE BOOK OF LINCOLN

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.00

No figure in American history has loomed up in such majestic proportions since the war began as that of Abraham Lincoln. Lincoln's vision, his philosophy, his attitude toward war and the means of securing a just peace, have been on the lips of British, French and American statesmen from month to month during the last three years.

Mrs. Davis has brought together in this volume the tributes of the world to Lincoln, and in a very real sense the picture of him that grows out of this volume is a world picture, international in its authorship and immortal in its truth.

Now that the great Lincoln memorial is nearing its completion in Washington and the eyes of the world are turning more and more to this heroic figure, people everywhere will find in Mrs. Davis's book the tributes that ought to be the common knowledge of a people who hold Abraham Lincoln in their hearts.

By JOHN T. FARIS

Author of "Old Roads Out of Philadelphia," etc.

HISTORIC SHRINES OF AMERICA

Illustrated with Photographs. 8vo, Net, $3.50

This admirable and beautiful book could not a couple of years ago have meant to us what it does today. Love for and pride in our country has been crystallized as never before into a national emotion. And increased knowledge of the romantic springs of our liberty and of our native culture satisfies a thirst in the newly awakened American heart.

Here in this volume is visualized the symbols of our faith: the landmarks of America's story in statesmanship, in war, and in literature, are presented with scrupulous historical accuracy and set in rich lore and legend. The treatment is fresh and direct. The scene ranges from the revolutionary monuments of the eastern states to such neglected spots in our romance as the house near St. Louis, where U. S. Grant courted Julia Dent, and gathers in roundabout all the rich and distinctive flavor of the South.

THE REAL COLONEL HOUSE

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.50

This book contains the first AUTHENTIC story of Colonel E. M. House, the closest confidant and personal representative of President Wilson.

Here for the first time is the intimate story of the most enigmatic figure in world politics. It portrays the man who controlled Texas politically for years; who made sure the election of President Wilson; who was the brains of his renomination and re-election; and who now occupies a position without parallel in world diplomacy by reason of his remarkable knowledge and life-long study of international politics.

It is the picture of a man who shuns the spot-light, but whose ten by fifteen study in his New York home is the point of call for every foreign diplomat and representative.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST

FEDERAL POWER: Its Growth and Necessity

12mo, Net, $1.50

A study, both scholarly and readable, of the subject which more than any other holds the attention of the political consciousness of the nation today.

Against a historical background, Mr. West makes clear the gradual centralization of government from the time of the first Federalist party, through the cataclysm of the Civil War which had the question of States' Rights for its primary issue, down to the present day. With frankness and moderation the author reviews the tremendous problems confronting us today as a result of the power given into the hands of the President. A discussion of federal power as a political issue and as a military necessity leads up to a prediction of the future which, considering the author's historical and political training, must be regarded as a serious contribution to the literature of political science.

By CHARLES STELZLE

WHY PROHIBITION!

12mo, Net, $1.50

A remarkably sane, sound, thorough, business-like treatment of prohibition as an educational and economic problem and a political and legislative question, by a completely equipped authority on the subject, who for more than a year has been conducting throughout the country the Strengthen America Campaign.

America practically holds in her hands the future of the liquor traffic throughout the world. Greatest of the foes within our own household is Kaiser John Barleycorn. And "temperance eloquence" as a weapon is as antiquated today as muzzle-loading cannon.

This is a book addressed straight to the enlightened self-interest of every drinker, every non-drinker, and every neutral in the matter of prohibition.

By FRANK M. O'BRIEN

THE STORY OF THE SUN: 1833-1918

With an Introduction by Edward Page Mitchell, Editor of The Sun.
Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $3.50

No great American newspaper has ever achieved and maintained so human a personality as the New York Sun. "A Sun story" has remained in an unbroken tradition a thing distinctive, unique in the annals of journalism, the darling of the newspaper world.

There has been no more famous editor than Dana. And the full story of the New York Sun is as rich, colorful, racy a picture of the development of the American scene as could possibly come to hand. It was born when New York was about the present size of Indianapolis or Seattle; when Postmaster Gouverneur had one clerk to sort out all the mail that came into New York from the rest of the world; when Irving and Cooper, Bryant and Halleck, Nathaniel P. Willis and George P. Morris were the outstanding figures of our intellectual life. In the days of duels, of Davy Crockett, of pigs wandering in City Hall Park.

It was the first newspaper sold on the streets of New York; its first newsboy grew up to be Barney Williams, the famous comedian; his boss, Benjamin H. Day, was the first American to make a success of a newspaper at a popular price. It was the sunrise of American journalism.

By H. B. IRVING

Author of "The Life of Judge Jeffreys," "Studies of French Criminals of the Nineteenth Century," etc.

A BOOK OF REMARKABLE CRIMINALS

8vo, Net, $2.00

This is a book which must appeal to all who are interested in the fascinating study of human nature. It is no mere rehashing of tales of horror, but an acute analysis of famous crimes and criminals.

The individual criminals whose careers are given have been chosen for pre-eminence in character or achievement. Charles Peace, the popular professional criminal, making of crime a business methodically pursued; Robert Butler, the strange type of the criminal by conviction; Derues, that rare bird, the merry murderer; Professor Webster and Eugene Aram, men of culture and scholarly attainment who burst suddenly into crime; Holmes, the instinctive murderer, taking life as an incident in the accomplishment of his schemes—these are a few of the remarkable types presented by Mr. Irving.

There are also strikingly original discussions of the great criminals of Shakespeare, and their verisimilitude when compared with those of real life; and of the criminality of some heroes of history. These real crimes, which have furnished the basis for literary masterpieces, from "Arden of Faversham" to "The Cenci," are evidence that the true stories in this book represent the raw material of future works of art.

By HELEN W. HENDERSON

Author of "A Loiterer in New York," etc.

A LOITERER IN NEW ENGLAND

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $5.00

Miss Henderson achieved considerable fame by her unusually able volume upon New York and its art treasures. A LOITERER IN NEW YORK has attracted wide attention for its breadth of vision and its soundness of careful judgment.

In her new volume she brings the same trained observation to a study of New England and its treasures and for any one who wants to know about the best that New England holds for the art lover, there is no more interesting or more capable volume to be recommended than Miss Henderson's.

The book is uniform with A LOITERER IN NEW YORK, and very beautifully illustrated with the choicest reproductions of New England's art subjects.

By LUCIAN SWIFT KIRTLAND

SAMURAI TRAILS

A Chronicle of Wanderings on the Japanese Highroad.

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.50

A walking tour through the unfrequented byways of Japan, where foreigners are an unheard of occurrence, offers a limitless field for picturesque adventure. This is no tourist's guide book, but the delightful record of days on the road, where even inconveniences have their silver lining of humor, and the spice of unexpectedness is a frequent condiment.

To wander along the ancient roads with O-Kirtland-san and O-Owre-san is to learn more about Japan than the average foreigner has any chance to learn, and to have the gaiety of life enriched forever by the memory of so enchanting an experience.

By CAROLYN WELLS

Author of "A Nonsense Anthology," etc.

SUCH NONSENSE:

A Unique Anthology of Wit and Nonsense.

Illustrated. Octavo, Net, $3.00

Carolyn Wells has the genius to be a wit and to discover the best of the wit of others. In this Anthology she has assembled much of the freshest, most sparkling nonsense of recent years. And she has annotated her book in an altogether unique fashion, giving new zest to her selections. The illustrations are by such masters of nonsense as Peter Newell, Gellett Burgess and others. A wonderful book for dull days or for friends with a predisposition to be dull.

By CLAYTON SEDGWICK COOPER

Author of "The Brazilians and Their Country," "The Man of Egypt," etc.

UNDERSTANDING SOUTH AMERICA

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.00

The vital importance to us of North America of a sympathetic and true understanding of South America was never more clear than now. Here is a book that ought to be in the hands of every intelligent reader, of every teacher, and of every employee of a commercial house with export trade.

Why the South American loves France, why, in spite of inter-marriage, trade methods, and propaganda through the schools, he cannot be brought to love Germany; what is his attitude toward America; his domestic, social, commercial and political life and ideas; the characteristics and status of women—these are only a few of the intensely interesting questions discussed in UNDERSTANDING SOUTH AMERICA.

By CARL W. ACKERMAN

Author of "Germany, the Next Republic?"

MEXICO'S DILEMMA

Illustrated. 8vo. Net, $1.50

Probably nobody is better qualified than Carl W. Ackerman, a trained writer and observer fresh from over two years' experience of the German character in Germany, to estimate the significance of German activities in Mexico. Upon his return to the United States, Mr. Ackerman went to Mexico to uncover the truth of the situation there as to the probable outcome of the dilemma in which that unhappy country finds herself.

What will Mexico do? And how can she be saved for the forces of right? Mr. Ackerman's answers are drawn from a multitude of intimate sources, whereby the past is collated with the present.

By FREDERIC A. FENGER

ALONE IN THE CARIBBEAN

With maps. Illustrated from photographs. 12mo, Net, $2.00

The attractive and fascinating narrative of a cruise in a sailing canoe among the Caribbean Islands. There is adventure sufficient to gratify the souls of those who delight in daring the unknown, yet it courses over paths not unfamiliar to many tourists. Mr. Fenger has the faculty and the facility for endowing a travelogue with genuine interest; in fact he allures one to the making of the trip and to this end his guides and charts are explicit and fully informing.

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

THE NEW REVELATION

12mo, Net, $1.00

A notable contribution to the literature of Psychical Research; it forms a connecting link between the scientific and the religious phases of the movement.

In Sir Arthur Conan Doyle another distinguished mind has been added to the ranks of the spiritualists, and his account of the process of his conversion, in experiments extending over a period of thirty years, compels the respect of the most skeptical.

Of particular value is the summing up of the descriptions of life on the "other side." In this time of terrible loss, the question of immortality has become the insistent question of the day. For the bereaved seeking comfort, no less than for the scientific investigator, "The New Revelation" is an excellent introduction to the subject of spirit communication.

By KENDALL LINCOLN ACHORN

Assisted by Dr. Betsey B. Hicks

THE BUGLE: Reveille in the Life Beyond

A Bit of Comfort to Soldiers' Mothers, Wives and Friends.

12mo, Net, $1.00

"My mission is to write a story of my brief experiences in the Life Eternal . . . My ardent desire is to reach my friends on earth who are sending out of their homes the sons who may come home no more." This is the spirit in which Dr. Achorn communicates with "Miss Secretary." Dr. Hicks is not a professional medium; the messages have come to her unsought and she records them as they come.

All who have read the remarkable revelations of "Raymond" will receive with especial interest this corroborative evidence of conditions on the Other Side. All who are suffering the irreparable loneliness which the war has brought to so many will find here courage and solace.

By J. ARTHUR HILL

Author of "Psychical Investigations."

MAN IS A SPIRIT

12mo. Net, $1.50

This book contains a most interesting collection of data by one of the leaders in the movement of Psychical Research, which has received a marked impetus from the tragedies of war.

The author criticises his material in an admirably scientific spirit, and has added some exceedingly interesting data on a subject which is holding the attention of the entire scientific and religious world.

The disciple will find much here to strengthen his conviction; and the opponent will find some tough material to whet his wits upon.

By ARNOLD BENNETT

Author of "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day," "The Human Machine," "Mental Efficiency," "Literary Taste," etc.

SELF AND SELF MANAGEMENT

Board. 12mo, Net, $1.00

If Arnold Bennett had never written a novel he would still be one of the most widely and eagerly read of living writers. In one of the most outstanding critical estimates of his power, Professor Stewart P. Sherman does not fail to emphasize the electric value and remarkable vogue of his direct talks to ordinary people. Doubtless no other man has in so great a degree the gift of interpreting to themselves for the surer guidance of their lives The Plain Man and His Wife. The author of "How to Live on Twenty-four Hours a Day" tells in SELF AND SELF MANAGEMENT exactly how one and all may put their lives on a war basis, resulting in the greatest effectiveness, and consequently self-satisfaction.

By ROBERT CORTES HOLLIDAY

Author of "Booth Tarkington," etc.

WALKING-STICK PAPERS

12mo, Net, $1.50

Mr. Holliday has had for a number of years the kind of a reputation most difficult to gain. That is, he has enjoyed the esteem of those best qualified to know what is best—our most critical and distinguished writers. Recently, as a humorous and critical biographer, his name has become widely known.

Booth Tarkington says: "A writer that can write." James Huneker says: "Monstrously clever." Royal Cortissoz says: "An individual, warming quality. Honest thinking and feeling." Joyce Kilmer says: "With the masters of the essay in English." The papers are the varied fruits of an unusual experience of the world's ways, ranging from the romance of the fish business to the inner sanctums of the literary profession, from a savoring of the spectacle of the town to infectious joy in the country-side.

By E. V. LUCAS

Author of "The Vermilion Box," "Cloud and Silver," etc.

A BOSWELL OF BAGHDAD

12mo, Net, $1.35

Mr. Lucas has come across an English translation, published in four ponderous volumes, of an Arabic work of the thirteenth century, a Biographical Dictionary by one Ibn Khallikan, who attained all sorts of distinctions as a kadi (sounds like the "Arabian Nights!").

Everyone acquainted with Mr. Lucas's playful ingenuities will appreciate the sport he is able to get out of this Arabian-Nights-like affair. Mr. Lucas passes from his sage of Baghdad to various diversions in the passing show of today, upon which he touches with a delicacy and a discretion altogether his own.

Selected and Arranged by WILFRID M. SHORT

THE MIND OF ARTHUR JAMES BALFOUR

Selections from His Non-Political Writings, Speeches and Addresses, 1879-1917. Including Special Sections on America and Germany.
With Portrait. Octavo, Net, $2.50

No contemporary British statesman or man of letters is better known by name to the American public than Arthur James Balfour, and yet it is true that until his visit to this country at the head of the British War Mission the average American had no real idea of the remarkable calibre of this extraordinary figure of English life.

This book, based upon a volume issued several years ago, gives a very interesting insight into the mind of a man whose life-long hope has been the closer union of the English-speaking peoples. The chapters, drawn from his writings and public utterances, cover an amazing field of politics, literature, art, education, history, religion, music, philosophy and science. A special section on Germany has been added from his recent writings. The book reveals one of the most able and unusual intellects of our day.

By HAROLD BEGBIE

ALBERT, FOURTH EARL GREY: A Last Word

With a portrait. 12mo, Net, $1.25

A message of cheer and counsel to the English-speaking world from the man of whom Viscount Bryce says in the book: "No more beautiful or lovable character has adorned our generation, or borne more worthily the tests of long life and high office."

This message Lord Grey committed in the last days of his life to Mr. Begbie, who by means of many anecdotes and incidents has interwoven with it much of the singular charm of the personality of the man himself.

By WILL LEVINGTON COMFORT

Author of "The Last Ditch," "Lot and Company," "Red Fleece," "Midstream," "Down Among Men," etc.

THE HIVE

12mo, Net, $1.50

Here is a book of the future, for those of the present who are eager for the vision of new horizons, new trails which lead to a broader, freer life than humanity has yet acknowledged.

Delicate pastels of the beauty of life in the open, filled with the inspiration of the out-of-doors and the people who dare to re-create life to nobler uses; letters from the children who have found the open road and felt the spell of the mystical adventure; bugle calls to enlist soldiers for the newer democracy—all of these and other sources of inspiration are brought together in a book which opens a new way of life to those who have let themselves be smothered under a load of mere things.

By ROSE COHEN

OUT OF THE SHADOW

With twelve illustrations by Walter Jack Duncan. 8vo, Net, $2.00

This is such a book as appears only at rare intervals. Poignant, of enduring beauty, immensely timely, this authentic romance of the miraculous spiritual Americanization of the alien, like "Marie Claire," strikingly illustrates Whistler's dictum that "art happens." None can foretell where genius will strike. A Russian emigrant girl who learns written English by her enthusiasm for a chance copy of "David Copperfield" tells her own story with the creative power of a great novelist; with a delightful raciness of phrase which could not be simulated by the professional writer; and with a sociological insight beyond the mere student.

From its strange and touching beginning in Russia, lit by the light of a beautiful family affection, the story passes to the almost as strange and equally touching shadow of New York's east side. And then by a deep human experience comes the author's awakening to a wide spiritual horizon and the meaning of America to her adopted children.

A book which is the fruit of unconscious art.

By MRS. A. BURNETT SMITH

("ANNIE S. SWAN")

AN ENGLISHWOMAN'S HOME

12mo, Net, $1.35

The part of women in the war is no less real because their fighting is done behind the lines. These poignant, simple letters from an English woman to her American friend will touch the heart of every American woman who reads them; for they tell of the brave effort to "carry on" when sacrifice after sacrifice has been demanded and gladly given. To have stood in the garden while your house was blown to pieces by a Zeppelin bomb, to have waited with munition workers in a factory during the moments which might be the last for four thousand women workers—these are the things which make the war a very close and terrible reality.

By ELIA W. PEATTIE

PAINTED WINDOWS

Illustrated. 16mo, Net, $1.00

The reader goes with the author into the chamber of memory and lifts eyes to the "painted windows" where the figures and scenes of childhood appear. By looking with charmed eyes at those pictures from out her past, long-wished-for visions of one's own youth appear to heal the wounds from which we suffer, and to quiet our stormy and restless hearts today. Night, solitude, friendship, fame, remorse, and travel are the themes treated with delicate feeling and exquisite grace of expression.

By ROBERT H. BABCOCK, M.D.

YOUR HEART AND HOW TO TAKE CARE OF IT

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.50

Have you any very clear notion as to how your habits and your mode of life may affect your heart? If you have a weak heart, do you know how to protect it from still greater weakness? Do you know really what symptoms mean heart disease and what do not? In short, do you know anything clear and definite about the one organ on which the healthy, orderly function of your other organs depends?

It is the object of this book to give you clear and reliable information to enable you to take care of your own health and that of others. Its warnings to the hurrier, the victim of the too strenuous life, are to the highest degree helpful and cannot be too strongly emphasized. The day of intentional mystification by the medical profession is past, and the day of the education of the public is at hand. Dr. Babcock is one of those enlightened physicians who are glad to share their knowledge with the layman.

By GEORGE and ALICE HAYDEN

THROW PHYSIC TO THE DOGS

16mo, Net, $1.00

As bright and lucid as Irvin Cobb, here is a programme for throwing away innumerable ills—a model of practicality, intelligence and commonsense. It is most unfashionable now not to be well, and it's "mossback" not to know what starts the row anywhere in your "innards." THROW PHYSIC TO THE DOGS gives you an X-ray of yourself.

The main theme of the book is the banishment of the injuries of cathartic and the attainment and preservation of health by diet and a correct handling of the body.

By MATTHEW PAGE ANDREWS

A HERITAGE OF FREEDOM

12mo. Boards, Net, $0.50

In this intensely interesting study of the sources and beginnings of American democracy Mr. Andrews has uncovered a genuinely new page of history. The "newer history" has found the English and American relations both prior to, and after the Revolution, a field of fruitful study.

The point brought out by Mr. Andrews is that the essential democratic natures of the two peoples prevented a conflict and that a democratic group in England itself animated and supported the colonies.

Coming at this moment, Mr. Andrews's volume will do much to open the eyes even of well-read Americans to the lineal descent of American democracy from the liberal element of the British people. More than this, it will make clear the essential unity of ideal in the two countries.

By ANNETTTE KELLERMANN

HOW TO SWIM

Illustrated with Many Photographs of Miss Kellermann and Diagrams of Strokes, Dives, etc. Octavo, Net, $2.00

It is hardly too much to say that no one person has ever done as much to popularize and make perfect the art of swimming as Annette Kellermann. Her name is synonymous with water sports the world over, and wherever the movies have gone the public has witnessed the water marvels of this graceful and accomplished woman.

In the book she tells how she swims, and the story goes back to the days of her childhood in Australia and her first struggles and success in England when she got three-quarters across the English Channel.

It is a fascinating book, beautifully illustrated by pictures of Miss Kellermann, and the chapters are full of the intimate details and secrets of her art.

By ANNETTTE KELLERMANN

PHYSICAL BEAUTY—HOW TO KEEP IT

Illustrated with Many Photographs of Miss Kellermann.

Octavo, Net, $2.00

In point of physical development, Annette Kellermann is acknowledged to be one of the few living women who approximate the ideal of the Venus de Medici. She tells how she got her bodily perfection and how she keeps it.

Swimming, dancing, care of the skin, dieting for reduction of weight, care of hands and feet, hair and teeth; and the secret of becoming clothes—these are some things that the author deals with.

The book is practical, sound in its advice, and has the value of offering a program which is thoroughly tested by the experience of Miss Kellermann.

By WARREN H. MILLER

Author of "Rifles and Shotguns," "The Boys' Book of Canoeing and Sailing," etc.

CAMPING OUT

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.50

Camping out may well be classed as one of the liberal arts and few men practising the art have had any such rich and varied experience as Warren H. Miller. For thirty years, in all climates and conditions, Mr. Miller has been going out once a month, every month, for a brief camping trip, and in the Fall and Spring seasons these trips have frequently run to a week.

This experience, coupled with the close study of all outdoor sports which the author has made, as Editor of Field and Stream, qualify him to speak with very great authority.

This volume covers a wide range. It discusses all kinds of camping outfits from the de luxe kit of the man with unlimited means down to the bare essentials of the hunting and exploring outfit adapted to long trips.

By MAUD CHURCHILL NICOLL

KNITTING AND SEWING

How to make seventy useful articles for men in the Army and Navy.
Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.75

This book describes and illustrates the different kinds of wool; gives the method of using plain and fancy stitches for mufflers, waistcoats, silk ties, etc.; gives the directions for making many kinds of helmets, caps, mufflers, gloves, sweaters, belts, ten kinds of socks, etc., as well as chamois articles such as waistcoats, body protectors, underwear and socks.

This is a handbook of practical instruction which every woman who knits will find invaluable.

By A. C. WOOD

OLD DAYS ON THE FARM

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.50

The life of the pioneer is fast fading out of the consciousness of the nation—the isolated farms and cabins are gone, and the telephone and automobile are ubiquitous. But the old days should not be lost to us. Mr. Wood has recaptured the stalwart spirit, the hardships, the customs, the fun that are possible only under the primitive conditions of life on an old-fashioned farm.

Enthusiasm and humor bubble on every page. Adventures in simplicity were as hair-raising as any zestful seeker of experiences could desire. Breaking in a wild ox team, fighting a way through snow drifts to the distant village for food, and the gentler idylls of milking and courting and fishing make the town dweller look back a bit wistfully to the old days on the farm, and feel that he has had at least a glimpse into Arcadia.

By JOHN and ROBERT MATTER

THE AMATEUR VAGABOND

12mo, Net, $1.50

The gallant, adventurous spirit of healthy youth fills the pages of this story of a young college man who tests his brains and his brawn by undertaking a journey round the world with no money in his pocket and only his honest, friendliness for credential. He meets all sorts of queer coves—laborers, sailors, crooks, and wanderers—and makes friends with them all.

He sees death, and he learns what it is to be despoiled of his wages in one night's rioting. But through it all he learns to stand on his own feet and to find bits of wisdom in the most unlikely places. Every chap who has never quite grown up—and that means everyone worth considering—will rejoice in this spirited tale of a year's vagabondage.

THE ECLIPSE OF RUSSIA

The True Story of Russian Autocracy and Its Preparation for Anarchy.
Octavo, Net, $4.00

Dr. Dillon has long been a student of Slavic languages and civilization. He has lived on the Steppes of the Ukraine as well as in Petrograd. For years he lived and worked in close contact with the Liberal movement under the Tsars; he is a graduate of two Russian Universities and Professor at the University of Kharkoff; he has been leader-writer of two Russian newspapers and editor of one; he was intimate adviser of Count Witte. If it is possible for the Saxon mind to understand the Slav, here, without doubt, is the man best fitted for the difficult task!

THE ECLIPSE OF RUSSIA is a revelation of the genius and the weakness of the Russian people; an analysis of the underlying reasons for their gigantic attempts and still more gigantic failures.

By LOUISE BRYANT

SIX RED MONTHS IN RUSSIA

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $2.00

Here is the story of the Russian revolution as seen through the eyes of a sympathetic observer of the great upheaval. Miss Bryant lived in Russia, not as an outsider, but as one of the people. She knew Kerenski, Lenine, Trotski and the leaders of every party. She knew the women of the famous Battalion of Death. She was among those caught in a closed archway and fired on by an armored car; she was in the Winter Palace with the Junkers on the afternoon when it fell. In fact, there were few things going on in that period of incredibly rapid events which Louise Bryant did not take part in. Her story is that of one who knows just what vast, hungry, struggling Russia was like during all those days, and who tells what she knows in vivid, flashing pictures, which make the reader live through it all with her.

JAPAN OR GERMANY

The Inside Story of the Struggle in Siberia. 12mo, Net, $1.35

Every One Asks: Should Japan go to Siberia? What will her going mean? What effect will her participation have on the Russian Problem?

The Author Answers: Yes, let her go, by all means, and from an intimate, first-hand knowledge of Russia, Siberia, Japan and the Far East, tells why Japan should represent the Allies in the Siberian settlement.

THE GREAT CRUSADE: Extracts from Speeches Delivered During the War

12mo, Net, $1.50

These extracts from speeches delivered during the past three years on different aspects of the war, include the work of the great English leader as Minister of Munitions, Secretary of State for War, and Prime Minister. They furnish a key to conditions in England from the very highest source. The war aims of the allies, the Russian Revolution, food conservation, America's place in the world war, are among the questions of vital interest discussed by the man who is now guiding the destinies of the British Empire.

WHAT EVERY AMERICAN SHOULD KNOW ABOUT THE WAR

8vo, Net, $2.00

This volume is, in a sense, a training camp for the minds of all patriotic American men and women, a forum to equip them for the new duties and emergencies of the hour. It brings the reader to a conference, representing all fields of war knowledge met at the seat of our government to study the great conflict. The relation to the war of labor, food, fuel, journalism, banking, education, socialism, feminism, immigration, the Red Cross, and all the other strands which compose the fabrics of our national effort are covered with encyclopaedic detail.

Some of the notable contributors to the symposium are: Lord Reading, André Tardieu, Samuel Gompers, William English Walling, John Barrett, Herbert Hoover, William C. Redfield, Honorable Philander P. Claxton, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, John W. Davis.

AMERICA AT WAR—With Preface by JAMES M. BECK

A Handbook of Patriotic Education References. 12mo, Net, $1.50

This Manual performs a great public service. In a compact form, it gives the basic facts with respect to the causes of the war and its subsequent development, and references to the pertinent data.

An invaluable aid to speakers, writers, readers and thinking people in general to visualize the present situation of the United States and to make the difficulties and dangers of the time clear to other people.

By PHILIP GIBBS

Author of "The Battles of the Somme," "The Soul of the War," etc.

FROM BAPAUME TO PASSCHENDAELE

(On the Western Front, 1917) Maps. Octavo, Net, $2.50

The most widely read writer on the war, declares Frederic Coleman, F.R.G.S., is Philip Gibbs, war correspondent with the British Army in the field for the London Daily Chronicle and numerous Provincial and Colonial papers, and whose vivid and colorful dispatches are a standard feature of the New York Times.

FROM BAPAUME TO PASSCHENDAELE is a clarifying panoramic view of the wide sweep of the war itself, knit of innumerable "close-ups." It pictures every nook and corner of the scene: a world of strange little dramas, heroic exploits, tragic stories, humorous episodes, and historically significant things.

By SIR ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

A HISTORY OF THE GREAT WAR—VOLUME III. THE BRITISH CAMPAIGN IN FRANCE AND FLANDERS—1916

Illustrated. Maps. Octavo, Net, $2.00

In dramatic value this third volume of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's monumental history passes far beyond the two volumes which preceded it. The volume presents the heartening story of the first year of attack and advance by a mammoth army, like our own, moulded out of hand. Though Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's great rank as a historian has been attained by accurate statement, the stirring story of the Somme can justly be told only in stirring words. All in all, this book leaves a most powerful impression.

By CAPTAIN A. RADCLYFFE DUGMORE

Author of "Camera Adventures in the African Wilds," "The Romance of the Beaver," etc.

WHEN THE SOMME RAN RED

With maps, diagrams, reproductions of field notes made under fire, etc.
12mo. Net, $1.75

When the war broke out the author (then Mr. Dugmore) went into Belgium with a motion picture camera and snapped the Boche in some of his early operations. He was captured twice and got away each time—finally with a most valuable reel of pictures for the British Government.

Later, as Captain Dugmore, he went through the great days of battle when the German line was smashed on the Somme, and his account of these adventures, over the very ground of this spring's vast conflict—until he was gassed—form one of the most thrilling and unique records of personal experience that has ever found its way past the censor.

By ABBE E. WETTERLE

BEHIND THE SCENES IN THE REICHSTAG

Octavo, Net, $2.00

Sprightly as witty gossip, authentic as history, earnest as the charges of a public-spirited citizen against criminal injustice, are these stirring memoirs of an Alsatian priest who, as a member of the Reichstag from the "lost province," has devoted his life to fighting the political battles of his oppressed people. The hypocrisy, the stupidity, the servility of Germany's parliament are here revealed by one who has spent years behind the scenes. The characters of German leaders—the Kaiser, von Bulow, the Crown Prince, von Tirpitz, Scheidemann, Bethmann-Holweg, and a host of others—are etched with calm truthfulness and revealing personal detail. The whole history of the relations between Alsace and Germany is recounted in a style which makes it easy to see how the author's journal set all official Germany by the ears, how every attempt to suppress him only added to his popularity.

By MABEL POTTER DAGGETT

WOMEN WANTED

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.50

Several months ago Mrs. Daggett went abroad to make a thorough study at first hand of the change in woman's position in Europe, and she has brought together in this book astounding accounts of the new world that war has opened wide to women. Visiting the industrial and war works of England and France, Mrs. Daggett saw women in highly skilled technical work, women at machines rebuilt on a smaller scale for their express use, factories filled with bouquets to keep the women happy, whole villages in which the housekeeping was done, and the meals cooked, and the children cared for by the government, so that milady might be free to work.

The plain story of what England and France have done for their women's labor reads like a fairy tale. It overturns all the economic and labor theories as to woman's domestic limitations, and it opens up the large question: After the war—what? Mrs. Daggett attempts to forecast the answer to this in three interesting chapters on the rising value of the baby, the ring and the woman, and the new race.

WOMEN OF THE WAR

With a preface by the Rt. Hon. H. H. Asquith. 8vo, Net, $1.25

At no crisis in history, ancient or modern, has the fate of men and nations hung so patently upon the courage, self-sacrifice and utter devotion of women as in the Allies' battle for Democracy.

Here is the story of thirty-one leaders among women in as many different fields of work, and all the outgrowth of the last three years.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S STATE PAPERS AND ADDRESSES:

With an Introduction by Dr. Albert Shaw, LL.D., Editor of "The Review of Reviews." 8vo, Net, $2.00

No body of state papers or presidential addresses will ever be published, probably, of such permanent and vital interest to the world as these. Every American ought to read them as a patriotic service, to know the reasons for our presence in the greatest conflict in history and the ends we seek.

Every library, public or private, and every loyal citizen who would serve his country intellectually as well as physically, should have it.

By NEWTON D. BAKER

Secretary of War

FRONTIERS OF FREEDOM

8vo, Net, $1.50

In the course of his duties, the Secretary of War is called upon by all manner of organizations for statements of the department's work. Mr. Baker always speaks extemporaneously and his words have a freshness and a directness that make doubly interesting this intimate picture.

Clear-visioned, forceful, quick with patriotism, this book gives a picture of a man who is impatient of anything but the very best that America can do. The book is specially valuable because it contains Mr. Baker's memorable survey of America's war effort made before the Senate Military Committee. No one can read the volume without feeling its inspiration, its firm purpose, and realizing what the United States is doing.

THE RIGHT HONORABLE, THE EARL OF READING

"ACROSS THE FLOOD"

Addresses at the Dinner in Honor of the Earl of Reading at the Lotos Club, New York, March 27th, 1918. 12mo. Boards, Net, $1.00

The speeches here collected were delivered to the members of the Lotos Club at a memorable dinner in honor of Lord Reading. Too important to be limited to a private audience, they are now made accessible to the general public.

These addresses of Lord Reading, Lord Chief Justice of England and Ambassador to the United States, Governor Whitman, the Honorable Charles E. Hughes, and Colonel George Harvey, represent the reactions and hopes in the present crisis of leaders of opinion here and in England. They reveal what minds of the highest power are thinking of events of immediate significance.

By SIR OLIVER LODGE

Author of "Modern Problems," "Raymond," Etc.

THE WAR AND AFTER

8vo, Net, $1.50

In this book Sir Oliver Lodge does the very thing that thoughtful men and women the world over are trying to do with more or less success: he "takes stock" of the past, the present and the future with relation to the war and to Germany; and he points the way.

After touching upon the past with its false philosophy and its conflict of ideals, Sir Oliver unfolds in a wonderful panorama a vision of what may be got from this world anguish—the great new crusade to which all the nations are called.

With a knowledge that springs from years of eminent scientific research and the spiritual forcefulness of a writer who could give to the world a book like "Raymond," Sir Oliver is doubly armed to move the reader by his vision of a new earth. It is a book to read—and re-read.

By MAJOR HALDANE MACFALL

GERMANY AT BAY

Maps and Illustrations. 12mo, Net, $1.50

An introduction by Field-Marshall French says the author "in his peace strategy points out that the German has entered upon his most dangerous phase of this war."

Major Macfall's book is written for the man in the street. He takes up first the question of strategy, its general bearings, and the German genius for war. Next, he uncovers the German Menace, its rise, its rooting in Kultur; German strategy and precisely what it is; the opposing war machines; why German strategy failed; and then, in an intensely interesting section, the question of a peace map and how it is to be made.

GERMANY AS IT IS TO-DAY

12mo. Net, $1.50

What is happening inside Germany?

What is the truth about her food, her finance, her labor, her growth of crime?

Is she standing the strain?

Cyril Brown, one of the best-known and ablest war correspondents writing today, sets forth his conclusions in this engrossing volume.

His work a careful study of economic, social and financial conditions in Germany, is extremely valuable as a sound investigation which wastes no words in calling names but gets down to the facts. To learn the truth about German conditions is essential to dealing with them.

TWO THOUSAND QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ABOUT THE WAR

8vo, Net, $2.00

Here are brought together for the first time more than two thousand important questions about the great war with their correct answers.

Where are the American troops in France? What was the first act of Congress after war was declared? How is the war financed? What was the Appam case? What is the difference between a rapid fire gun and a machine gun? What is the convoy system? Are the Belgians a single race? And so on indefinitely.

The book also contains maps of all the war fronts and an extensive dictionary of foreign names. Its value lies not only in its comprehensive answering of all manner of questions, but also in its educational worth.

ANONYMOUS

THE LIE OF AUGUST 3D, 1914

12mo, Net, $1.50

The representations of Germany regarding her part in the world war are woven of a tissue of lies. Just how it was done—how the gullible German people were beguiled into believing that eighty French officers, disguised as Germans, crossed Holland into Germany in twelve motor cars, that French aeroplanes dropped bombs on German cities before the declaration of war, that French doctors tried to poison German wells with cholera microbes, and a hundred other wild tales—is here revealed with all the Mephistophelian cunning of the German inventors exposed. Extracts from official documents, from the accounts of eye witnesses, and from German newspapers prove beyond the shadow of a doubt the vast network of lies whereby Prussia secured the co-operation of the rest of Germany in her attack on the freedom of the world.

By COLONEL GEORGE G. NASMITH, C. M. G.

ON THE FRINGE OF THE GREAT FIGHT

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.50

Why has this war, in other respects the most terrible in history, failed to take its accustomed toll of casualties by contagious disease? The efforts of the medical and sanitary corps are quiet, tireless, heroic. They investigate the carcase of a dead rat, and—save an army from Bubonic plague. There are times when Tommy wants a bath more than he wants the V. C.—and these are the men who see that he gets it.

Colonel Nasmith was in conference with the greatest scientists of France in war-time Paris. He was near St. Julien at the time of the first gas attack. He saw the second Battle of Ypres. He analyzed the German gas, invented the gas mask, devised a means of supplying the troops with pure water. And he tells about it all with the terseness and conviction of the man who has seen with his own eyes the things whereof he speaks.

PRACTICAL FLYING: Complete Course of Flying Instruction

With an Introduction by Major-General W. S. Brancker, R. A. F.
Illustrated by Flight-Lieutenant E. L. Ford, R. N. 12mo, Net, $1.50

This is the first practical work on ACTUAL TRAINING AND INSTRUCTION for the FLYING SERVICES, covering the whole field, from elementary groundwork to advanced flying.

Written and illustrated by practical Flying Officers, themselves instructors, who have had considerable experience under service conditions. The most recently adopted methods of tuition are dealt with. It will be read with immense interest by all who follow the tremendous progress of aviation.

No pains have been spared to make the work complete. Over one hundred illustrations, diagrams, maps, etc. With a special pull-out map illustrating a cross-country flight. A glossary of terms used in flying is a particularly useful feature.

AIRCRAFT IN WAR AND COMMERCE

With an introduction by Lord Montagu of Beaulieu, C. S. I.
Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.50

The world has waked up to the fact that the one great discovery of the present war is the untold possibilities of the aircraft.

This book gives the reader a real look behind the scenes. It takes up the history of flying, tells how Germany got the better of the world. How France, England and Italy have caught up with her. How America is now in the way of becoming the greatest flying nation of the world.

How the aeroplane is built, how it is flown, how it can be fought best; what the aeroplane will mean to the future—these are some of the very interesting things told in this book.

THE NEW BOOK OF MARTYRS

Translated by Florence Simmons. 12mo. Net, $1.35

The old martyrology contained the chronicles of those who laid down their lives for the faith. These martyrs of the new day have done no less. They are the heroes whose exploits would have remained unknown were it not for a French military doctor who knew and loved them.

He heard their stories in the hospital; and he sets down the record here, in these true and unforgetable tales of the nameless heroes of the French front—a thing of wonder, of unspeakable sadness, of shining glory.

By SERGEANT PILOT HAROLD E. WRIGHT

ACES HIGH

Being Some Adventures with Democracy's Air Devils. 12mo, Net, $1.50

The air service is at once the most picturesque, dangerous, and romantic of all the branches of fighting. Here is "inside stuff" which has not only the thrill of adventure in the air, but catches the inner spirit and emotion which accompanies a combat, a fall, a life and death contest of wits and skill.

Sergeant Wright had some dramatic experiences with the French as well as the enemy—when he was ordered to be shot at sunrise by his own side, for instance; indeed he seems to have drawn exciting events in his direction as a magnet draws iron. And he tells about it with the spirit, the gaiety, the sense of dramatic values, which mark him out as one of the few writers of war experiences whose work has literary as well as personal interest.

By MAJOR W. A. BISHOP, V. C., D. S. O., M. C.

WINGED WARFARE

Illustrated. 8vo, Net, $1.50

First they gave him the M.C.—Military Cross.
As he continued to down Germans they added the D.S.O.—Distinguished Service Order.
Still his record grew. So they added the V.C.—Victoria Cross.
That was all there was; but the Victories grew so they added a gold bar to the V.C.
This is Major Bishop's own story. It is the book of the Champion, the wonder book of the air. Here are none of the grim tragedies of the trenches, none of the sights and smells and brutalities. It is a tale of exhilarating adventure that leaves the reader breathless after the swerve and dip of battle.

By MARCEL NADAUD

THE FLYING POILU (Translated by Frances Wilson Huard)

With drawings by Charles Huard. 12mo, Net, $1.35

A most delicate yet realistic romance of the French aviation service, full of humour, breathless excitement, pathos, gaiety—in a word, of the inimitable French élan. Chignole is a street urchin of Paris who, by his daring exploits, his incorrigible love of pranks, his infectious humour, wins the love and respect of the social superiors among whom he is thrown, and, through suffering, friendship, danger, "finds himself."

By CAPTAIN JOHN STANLEY CAMERON

Master of American Bark Beluga

TEN MONTHS IN A GERMAN RAIDER

A Prisoner of War on the Wolff. Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

Captain Cameron's story as it came from his own lips is a simple record of human experience in these unbelievable times—a bully sea yarn unspoiled by a literary finish.

The master of the American bark Beluga, torpedoed homeward bound, tells the story of his great adventure on board the German raider Wolff and subsequently on the prize ship Igotz Mendi, on which vessels he and his wife spent almost a year, experiencing German sea warfare from the inside.

THE UNCIVIL WAR

12mo, Net, $1.25

A very shrewd, searching philosophy marks these discussions of America and the War. Under cover of an amusing and at times hilarious style, Porter Emerson Browne goes to the roots of some of those questions which are behind and beneath our purpose in entering the world conflict.

War as we have hitherto understood it and as the Germans have now made us see it; Kaiserism, autocracy and the only remedy for it; the justness of our cause; the winning of the War by economy—these are some of the subjects, uppermost in all our minds, which this volume lights up with a flash of humor and pointed wisdom.

CRESCENT AND IRON CROSS

12mo, Net, $1.25

In this volume the author describes the hideous oppression under which the subject peoples of the Ottoman Empire have so long suffered. He goes fully into the steps whereby Germany has secured, for the present, an absolute dominion over Turkey, and suggests the measures that will be necessary before the Allies can realise one of their stated aims in the war—namely, to free the subject peoples from the cruel yoke and expel the Turkish Government from Constantinople. His facts are derived from a study of official documents.

By JAMES W. GERARD

Former United States Ambassador to the German Imperial Court. Author of "My Four Years in Germany."

FACE TO FACE WITH KAISERISM

Illustrated. 8vo. Net, $2.00

In his signed preface to this book Mr. Gerard says:

"In some measure this book is a continuation of MY FOUR YEARS IN GERMANY, the narrative here being carried up to the time of my return home, with some observations on the situation I have found in the United States.

Here are facts which could not before be made public, a fresh disclosure of the experiences of America's official spokesman in Berlin. Mr. Gerard gives an intimate personal record of people met, conversations held, and events witnessed. Besides the revelation of German statecraft from the inside, it contains an account of the situation of the neutral countries of Europe, a warning to our own country to beware of German propaganda, an exposure of the German spy system, and an analysis of conditions in the United States as he finds them.

WORLD PEACE: A Written Debate

Portraits. 12mo, Net, $1.25

This book holds a discussion of WORLD PEACE that every intelligent reader should ponder.

Our first duty is to win the war—as the President has proclaimed. Our next duty is to know what kind of peace we are going to exact for the lives we have spent. It is just as possible to squander the fruits of Victory as it is to dissipate wealth. We must know what we want. Do you know?

Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan disagree and tell you why. With which one do you stand? Their arguments are clearly set forth, the subjects they are debating unmistakably defined.

THE WORLD'S DEBATE

An Historical Defense of the Allies. 12mo, Net, $1.50

With poetic fervor and scientific exactness the distinguished English scholar and historian, Dr. William Barry, tells in sharp outline what were the contrasted ideals and the facts of history out of which the world's most searching, but no less hopeful situation has come to be.

He proves that Absolute Power is doomed, and that Democracy and Christianity are by origin and spirit of the same nature.

NAVAL POWER IN THE WAR

With Maps, Diagrams and Illustrations. 12mo, Net, $1.25

The volume is a clear record of the naval grand tactics of the war, and their results. The author maintains that in this war, as in past wars, the force of sea power is slowly but surely shaping the issues.

The chapters describing submarine operations and how we fight the U-boats will be of unusual interest to the general reader.

The volume is published with the sanction of the Navy Department and the Department of English at the Naval Academy. There are maps, diagrams, and pictures of ships from old paintings and modern photographs.

By L. COPE CORNFORD

THE MERCHANT SEAMAN IN WAR

With a Foreword by Admiral Sir John Jellicoe. 12mo, Net, $1.50

Never before have the eyes of the nations turned so universally to the sea and the men who live upon it. The men of the Merchant Service in this war have founded a new and glorious tradition in the face of undreamed-of peril. They have borne the full brunt of submarine warfare and have waged a fight against an insidious enemy which makes one of the glowing pages in history.

These true records are stories as inspiring as the sea ballads of an earlier day. From official forms, from the reports of men who often have oscillated, wet and starving, between life and death in an open boat for days and nights, who have perhaps themselves been wounded, and who speak with difficulty of what they have done and endured, are reconstructed these strange and moving episodes which reveal the heroic character of the British seaman.

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF THE BRITISH NAVY IN THE WORLD WAR

12mo, Net, $1.00

This account of the work of the British navy, made intelligible to the uninstructed landsman, is a well-deserved tribute to a service which has been insufficiently appreciated. The author describes the magnificent accomplishments of blockading the German fleet, molesting the enemy's coast positions, and controlling his communications with the oceans. He explains the importance of the North Sea and the Mediterranean in the present conflict.

A stimulating and vigorous book, and one which makes the reader take off his hat to the new Glory of the spiritual heirs of Drake and Nelson.

TWO WAR YEARS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Sketches of German and Young Turkish Ethics and Politics.

Translated from the German by E. ALLEN and the Author 12mo, Net, $1.50

"A tremendous indictment of German military methods, a book thrilling with generous indignation," declares the New York Evening Post; coming from the German war correspondent who reported the Dardanelles campaign for one of the most influential papers in Germany, and who had served in the German army earlier in the war.

The author makes the formal statement on oath that he has written this book to relieve his conscience by stating the truth about the things he has seen and experienced in Constantinople as a German correspondent. But, first and foremost, it is the bleeding story of a German's conversion.

By AN EXCHANGED OFFICER

WOUNDED AND A PRISONER OF WAR

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

One of the most engaging, as well as one of the most scathing of war narratives. First, Patient No. 7, Hôpital Civil, Cambrai, then a prisoner at Würzburg, and from Würzburg exchanged to England, this officer writes of his experiences with high literary merit and studious moderation.

He tells of "Tabac-Belge"—cabbage leaf filled with shavings and dust; of the "comically" anti-English papers he was allowed to read, and of German notices, such as "Do not use enemy language. 'Adieu' is French; say instead 'Auf ein Rechtherzigesfrohesbaldigeswiedersehen.'"

SIDELIGHTS ON GERMANY

12mo, Cloth, Net, $1.00

In this volume have been brought together selections from articles which have as their object the portrayal of German life and character as these have been affected or modified under war conditions. In nearly every case the source has been the German newspaper press or well-known and widely circulated German periodicals.

Another important object which this book has in view is to illustrate the gradual change of German war sentiment from the period of easy contempt of their enemies, from the period of frenzied jubilation and confidence in victory which characterized the nation in the early months of the war, to the dawning sense that all was not well, and that Germany was being confronted with the hostility of the civilized world.

HIGH ALTARS: The Battlefields of France and Flanders as I Saw Them

12mo, Net, $0.50

In High Altars John Oxenham has written a vivid and poignant series of narratives and impressions of what he saw on his visit to the battlefields of France and Flanders.

He was on Vimy Ridge, in Beaumont Hamel, along the front thereabouts, and under fire in Ypres. No one could look upon those scenes of devastation and tragic suffering without being profoundly moved, and Mr. Oxenham pictures them with realistic and emotional power.

THE SECOND BOOK OF ARTEMAS

12mo. Boards. Net, $0.50

THE SECOND BOOK OF ARTEMAS, which brings the humorous picture of the civilian war scene down to date, is, if possible, more amazingly witty and profoundly wise and scathingly cynical than the first.

Wudro appears again, and one Reding. Also the keeper of the victuals, chief larderer. Save butters-in there is no butter in all the land. The peace which Willi expoundeth is indeed the peace that passeth understanding. There is much light on those things which came to pass in the land of Russ. And, too, on wooing a war husband. Harken above all to Artemas in his wisdom on "damsels" doing their bit.

THE LETTERS OF THOMASINA ATKINS, Private (W. A. A. C.), on Active Service

12mo, Net, $1.00

Miss Thomasina, of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, is doing her bit somewhere in France as a simple soldier, leading a soldier's life with all its hardships and privations and hard work, and recording it in letters written home—letters which reveal with humor and force how nobly the women have done their work over there—work often sordid, often menial, almost never picturesque.

There is no limelight shining on them. There are neither footlights nor public. But when the victorious armies return, no corps will better deserve the uncovered heads and the grateful cheers of the crowd than the Thomasina Atkinses of this great war as they march in their place in the line.

THE ESCAPE OF A PRINCESS PAT

The Straight Story of Fifteen Months at the Mercy of the Huns.

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.40

A tale of capture, imprisonment and final escape to Holland, at the third attempt, of a Canadian soldier.

The writer tells of insults that he himself suffered and of things too shocking for exaggeration. He gives recipes of prison camp fare and explains how mail comes through—or doesn't come through.

If this is the most appalling book yet written of the war, it is nevertheless an imperative duty to read an account that so lays the dust of rumor with authentic facts. Letters, reports and newspapers support the testimony.

CAPTURED

Sixteen Months a Prisoner of War. Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

No word came through from this captured soldier for months. The life of the trenches we now well know. Here is a true, vivid and valuable account of what our "missing" soldiers face.

He describes, in no flattering way, the bill of fare in German prison camps, pictures prisoners booed and hissed by the people, tells the things a prisoner needs and how to send them, gives the experiences of prisoners, amusing and otherwise, and an account of the morale of the German people.

MANUAL FOR THE USE OF TROOPS IN AID OF THE CIVIL AUTHORITY

12mo, Net, $1.00

It is of the highest importance that the community shall understand the function of troops in time of public agitation. All persons who, by their presence, give countenance to a riot after being ordered to disperse are principals whether they engage in acts of violence or not. And it is the duty of any person so commanded to aid in establishing order.

Brigadier General Louis L. Babcock is not only one of the leading lawyers of the State of New York, but also has been long connected with its military affairs. For these reasons he is peculiarly well equipped for setting out clearly the law upon this important subject.

THE GREAT CRIME AND ITS MORAL

A Connected Narrative of the Great War. Octavo, Net, $2.00

A volume which is an invaluable library. The documentary literature of the Great War, so vast and so widely scattered as to be quite inaccessible as a whole to any but the professional student, is here gathered into an illuminating digest of its principal features.

The various counts of the indictment of the authors of the Great Crime, as presented by writers, newspapers and official documents of many nations, are vividly set out in the form of a short but connected narrative.

And the work drives home, with horrific force, the question: How will you fare, how will those who come after you fare, when there is no law but the Kaiser's law?

THE GERMAN PIRATE: His Methods and Records

12mo, Net, $0.75

From time immemorial, until the coming of the German submarine, there has existed on the oceans a fine, manly freemasonry, a unique code of courage, honor and chivalry, the noble tradition of the Brotherhood of the Sea.

These accounts of German submarine exploits, set down simply, without unfair comment, are taken from British Admiralty documents and the sworn statements of survivors.

They admit of but one conclusion, and demand to be widely digested. The German submarine commanders have proved by their deeds that they commit crimes from sheer love of cruelty. It cannot be argued that by committing these acts they were performing their work more efficiently.

TRENCH PICTURES FROM FRANCE

Illustrated. 12mo. Net, $1.25

This is a picture of France through the eyes of one of the best-known and best-loved Irishmen of his day. "Willie" Redmond, as he was affectionately called, went to the front in the winter of 1915 and was mentioned in the dispatches of Sir Douglas Haig. One of his last acts was to speak for Home Rule, and the address, delivered in Parliament, is given here in full. "Men wept unabashed," says T. P. O'Connor, "to hear him." Returning to the front he plead to be allowed to lead his men in the Great Push. This was finally granted and he charged at the head of the Irish Division which he founded. He was wounded and died later. His spirit was the life of his men and he looked upon his death as a fresh blood-bond between England and Ireland.

Illustrated. Quarto. Volume I. Net, $2.50

Here for the first time are brought together the series of official drawings of Muirhead Bone of battle scenes on the Western front. It is a veritable pictorial history of the War, a treasure-house of vivid and unforgettable scenes which can never be caught again by the brush or pencil of any artist, because they deal with men, as well as with ruined towns and cathedrals.

To one's children and grandchildren these pictures will speak to the eye and heart as nothing else can and no library can be said to be complete or adequate which does not hold these visual stories of the world's greatest tragedy.

Portraits in Color by FRANCIS DODD

GENERALS OF THE BRITISH ARMY

With Introduction and Biographical Notes.

Square quarto. Paper. Net, $0.50

This portrait gallery of British generals represents, in epitome, the drama of British history. Several of the biographical studies have been reprinted by papers throughout the United States. Each tells exactly what everyone wishes to know about such figures as Sir Douglas Haig, the Hon. Sir Julian Hedworth George Byng, Lieut.-General the Rt. Hon. Jan Christiaan Smuts, and the other officers of the British Army whose achievements in this war have been made forever memorable. The admirable portraits in color in each case solicit the dignity of a frame.

Portraits in Color by FRANCIS DODD

ADMIRALS OF THE BRITISH NAVY

With an Introduction by E. V. Lucas and Biographical Notes.

Square quarto. Paper. Net, $0.50

The corresponding volume to this, "Generals of the British Army," has been since its publication a source of information and illustrations to magazines and newspapers throughout the country. This companion collection of admirable portraits shows us what manner of men it is that for four years have kept the seas. A striking feature of the work is that in looking over the forty or more Naval heroes here limned, one is impressed by a generic likeness. The terse Biographical Notes put us into possession of exactly the information about each officer which at any moment we may want very much to know.

HALF DOLLAR BOOKS ABOUT THE WAR

A series of little books about the war and patriotism—stimulating, informing and convincing. You can read any one of them in an hour—you cannot forget it in a generation. They are anti-pacifist, anti-everything that is not fight to a finish and win.
Each 12mo. (some of them illustrated), decorated boards. Net fifty cents.

THE THUNDERS OF SILENCE By Irvin S. Cobb

Illustrated.

A daring story the like of which has never before been attempted in American fiction. A rebuke to pacifism and un-Americanism—a remedy for some present ills—a specific forbidding recurrence.

THE ALL-HIGHEST GOES TO JERUSALEM:

Being the Diary of the German Emperor's Journey to the Holy Land. From the French by Frank Alvah Dearborn. Illustrated.

This book, suppressed in times of peace, is the weapon of the satirist. The Kaiser must be dethroned from every position—no longer may he be the idol of anyone in a free country—ridicule and exposure are legitimate and effective weapons for the civilian.

THE BOOK OF ARTEMAS:

Concerning men and the things that men did do, at the time when there was war.

There is high speculation as to the identity of the literary genius who here masquerades as the prophet of the war age. It is amazingly witty and hilarious, as it is profoundly wise and scathingly cynical—a full equipment of epigram, proverb, and adapted adage.

MY GERMAN CORRESPONDENCE:

By Professor Douglas W. Johnson, Columbia University

Concerning Germany's responsibility for the war and for the method of its conduct, being an actual letter from a German professor together with a reply and foreword.

This German correspondence is a fascinating historical curiosity, presenting as it does, in the most direct way, the marvelous and grotesque obliquity of the German mind. The correspondents are two professors, one German and one American.

A HERITAGE OF FREEDOM By Matthew Page Andrews

The Political Ideals of the English-speaking Peoples.

Mr. Andrews has found new pages in the history of the English-speaking peoples. The unity of today is founded upon the fact that British and American people spring from the same stock; that cleavages have been few and greatly misrepresented.

This book is a plea for, and a textbook on, unity for world freedom.

HALF DOLLAR BOOKS ABOUT THE WAR

HALF DOLLAR BOOKS ABOUT THE WAR

OUR BOYS OVER THERE By Frederic Coleman

Mr. Coleman, an American journalist attached to the British armies, knows the ground and the battlefields whereon our boys must fight—the conditions under which they must live—and die. This book tells you and him what to prepare for when they get to France.

SPEAKING OF PRUSSIANS By Irvin S. Cobb

A great message to American people from an eye-witness of the horrors of war—yet he would choose war rather than that the free peoples of the world be brought into Prussian bondage.

An exposé of the madness of the German war-lord and the madness of the philosophy of the German people.

EFFICIENCY: A Play in One Act

By Robert H. Davis and Perley Poore Sheehan

With Appreciation by Theodore Roosevelt. Illustrated.

Irvin Cobb says: "In concrete form it embodies the greatest lesson which mankind is going to learn from this war—that flesh-and-blood are worth more to this world than blood-and-iron, and that in the end, flesh-and-blood must triumph over the king-made mechanism of absolutism and ruthlessness."

ROUGH RHYMES OF A PADRE By Woodbine Willie, M.C., C.S.

Padre is Tommy Atkins' familiar name for the chaplain. This padre, by common consent of the boys, is not a "solemn bloke"—to him "Gawd" is as human as any man in the trenches. Woodbine Willie justifies God's ways to man and, sans Theology, gives the men a religion of the real brotherhood of man.

THE CHALLENGE OF THE PRESENT CRISIS By Harry Emerson Fosdick

A spiritual message, by a writer whose books have sold into the hundreds of thousands, for all those who are struggling to see their way and to keep their souls alive in this terrific generation.

In what mood shall a Christian, or for that matter an idealist of any kind, face the catastrophe of today? With what considerations and insights can he support his faith and hope? And how can he harmonize his ideals with the necessities of action in time of war? The morale of our people critically depends upon their answer to such questions. This volume inspiringly meets the situation as a challenge to our strength.

YOUR BOYS By Gipsy Smith

"I love the common sense of Gypsy Smith's buzzy little book." So writes the Bishop of London.

A revelation of what the boys are thinking and feeling when they go into action. It is a dramatic story of what real religion means to them out there—not preaching, not dogma, but the practical kind that finds expression in the friendly ministrations that are the daily and homely needs of the fighting lines.

HALF DOLLAR BOOKS ABOUT THE WAR

Fiction

By MARY ROBERTS RINEHART

THE AMAZING INTERLUDE

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.50

In this very stirring and tender story of an American girl in Belgium, Mrs. Rinehart has caught and held the fine spirit of sacrifice and devotion that has flamed in so many women's hearts.

This is not a tale of the wounding of men. There are many such. This is a story of a little house of mercy, and of a girl with a doubtless spirit, and of two men who loved her. Only that.

"No better war story has been written by an American writer."—Outlook.

"There never was quite such an appealing little heroine as Sara Lee."—Philadelphia Press.

"Straight to the heart."—New York Sun.

"An intensely human story of enthusiasm, courage, romance and youth, revealing the heart of a young girl, and her awakening capacities."—New York Tribune.

"As fine a story as this prolific writer has given the public, and that is saying much."—New York Herald.

"A joyous tale of youth unafraid, courage and unfaltering tenderness that carried on despite dismay."—Boston Post.

By ARNOLD BENNETT

Author of "Whom God Hath Joined," "The Old Wives' Tale," The Clayhanger Trilogy, etc.

THE PRETTY LADY

12mo, Net, $1.50

In this novel Arnold Bennett entirely forsakes the Five Towns, and deals with London—and the West End of London—during the War. The Novel, which is full of war pictures of certain aspects of social life at home, opens in the autumn of 1914; its action extends over a period of nearly three years. One of the two heroines is a young Englishwoman moving in the most modern fashionable circles, whose striking face is a regular feature of the illustrated weeklies. The hero is a rich bachelor of fifty, who up to the great catastrophe has devoted himself to pleasure and to the dilettantism of the arts.

The story shows a mysterious and slow working of conscience in three individuals under the strain of the war. It is at once romantic, dramatic and strictly realistic. A supernatural element is present in it. The method differs from the author's best known serious works, being written in a series of short, rapid scenes, and depending for its varied picturesque effects rather on impressionism than on vast accumulations of detail. The book marks a striking new step in the author's art.

By FRANK SWINNERTON

Author of "The Chaste Wife," "On the Staircase," "The Happy Family," etc.

NOCTURNE

With an Introduction by H. G. Wells. 12mo, Net, $1.40

"This is a book that will not die. It is perfect, authentic, and alive. Certainly the discriminating will find it and keep it alive. If Mr. Swinnerton were never to write another word I think he might count on this much of his work living when many of the more important reputations of to-day may have served their purpose in the world and become no more than fading names. Mr. Swinnerton has written four or five other novels before this one, but none of them compares with it in quality."—H. G. Wells.

By GILBERT CANNAN

Author of "Mendel," "Three Sons and a Mother," Etc.

THE STUCCO HOUSE

12mo, Net, $1.50

Gilbert Cannan is a master in the tragedy of the trivial. In none of his previous novels has he reached such a pitch of dramatic intensity; none has been so transillumined by his vision of courage and tenderness.

THE STUCCO HOUSE is a dramatic development of the theme of the conflict between the ideals of the Industrial Revolution and the ideals of Wordsworth, Byron and Shelley. Familiar characters from "Round the Corner" and "Three Sons and a Mother" are here rounded with a new humanity, and Thrigsby is presented in the fever of its industrialism.

By ELIZABETH F. CORBETT

THE VANISHED HELGA

12mo, Net, $1.50

A strong, unconventional story, a highly novel theme, and a distinction of style which will be a rich pleasure to those on the lookout for fine things, mark this as one of the outstanding novels of the year.

It is the story, most convincingly and realistically told, of a cosmopolitan woman of wealth whose heart had never been touched—and of its romantic momentary yielding, and at length, after much has come to pass, of its final surrender, even against her own determination. The story's ending is decidedly unusual.

There is no parade of passion, no melodrama; but balance and power. A very high order of intelligence at work combined with a gift for making her characters of pronounced popular human interest.

By J. D. BERESFORD

Author of "The Housemates," "These Lynnebers," "The Story of Jacob Stahl," etc.

GOD'S COUNTERPOINT

12mo, Net, $1.50

"God's Counterpoint" represents Mr. Beresford at his best—a best which has not been surpassed even in the trilogy of "Jacob Stahl." As an interpreter of human thought and emotion, a chronicler of the adventures of the mind, J. D. Beresford stands as one of the foremost of modern novelists.

The study in abnormal psychology presented by Philip Maning is a dramatic presentation of profound truth; but the abnormal is not for one moment allowed to furnish more than a contrast giving point and vividness to the superb normality of the author's outlook on life. "God's Counterpoint" is in no sense didactic—save as life itself takes on meaning to the observant eye. It is the story of a man warped by his early training—a training even now all too prevalent—until his servitude to false ideals of love and purity can be broken only by the most drastic experience.

By J. D. BERESFORD and KENNETH RICHMOND

W. E. FORD: A BIOGRAPHY

The Story of a Man Who Lived Before His Time. 12mo, Net, $1.35

Here is a book which, in the form of a most engaging, romantic biography of a hypothetical character, develops a theory of modern education that is startlingly revolutionary and of particular significance at the present time. In no less a city than New York the educational system recently played a vital part in the contest for the mayoralty.

On all sides one gets word of new adventures in educational method. It is a universal problem, and "W. E. Ford," his philosophy and his romance, ought to be known to every person in any way connected with, or interested in, teaching.

By MARTIN SWAYNE

Author of "The Sporting Instinct," "Lord Richard in the Pantry," etc.

THE BLUE GERM

12mo, Net, $1.50

When two scientists after years of experiment succeed in discovering a germ which has power successfully to combat old age and disease, and introduce the new bacillus into the water supply of a great city—what will be the effect? The train of consequences which these would-be benefiters of humanity set in motion leads to strange results.

Here is a book which not only presents a fascinating scientific problem in strange but convincing fashion, but also shows a deep knowledge of the needs and reactions of human nature—a book which first rivets the attention on its series of unexpected events, and then leaves the reader with the thoughtful sense that humanity, after all, is not lightly to be tampered with.

By GEORGE A. BIRMINGHAM

Author of "Spanish Gold," "Gossamer," "The Red Hand of Ulster," etc.

THE ISLAND MYSTERY

12mo, Net, $1.50

The lightning that strikes twice in the same place is seldom given to an author. Mr. Birmingham, however, has indeed done another and an even better book, pure "Spanish Gold," in this jolliest of yarns about a cave-honeycombed island in the Aegean Sea, an island containing cisterns and cisterns of petrol wanted by the Kaiser for his submarines.

About the daughter of an American millionaire with a fancy for being a real queen. About a genial and unscrupulous island sovereign with a hilarious gift for talking English slang. About a polyglot Swiss who has been in the secret service in many countries, and a vivacious chorus of picturesque islanders.

"Do you want to hear a wounded man chuckle? Give him 'The Island Mystery' and linger (and hold your tongue) till he gets into it."—London Illustrated News.

By E. F. BENSON

Author of "The Tortoise," "The Freaks of Mayfair," "David Blaize," "Michael," etc.

AN AUTUMN SOWING

12mo, Net, $1.35

Sir Thomas Keeling, the hard man of affairs, apparently invulnerable to sentiment, fell in love with his secretary. The situation thus stated appears a familiar one to readers of romance. But Mr. Benson loses no time in demonstrating what an expert can do with a familiar theme.

His characters, few in number, are described with all this author's extraordinary skill. Norah Prophet is quite charming enough to justify poor Thomas Keeling's awakening to the drabness of his success, and by a delicate piece of analysis Mr. Benson traces her own progress from contempt to love.

By J. E. BUCKROSE

Author of "The Matchmakers," "The Round-About," "Spray on the Windows," etc.

THE GOSSIP SHOP

12mo, Net, $1.35

Gossip and mystery fairly rocked the village of Wendlebury. A lady had seen her lover wearing evening clothes in the morning. She had mentioned it in strictest confidence, but the young man lost his position.

How Pauline tried to make reparation, how young Unwin risked life and love to keep a dead man's secret, how finally a word cleared the mystery and love came home in a cab, is told in this quaint, 'tween showers romance.

By HORACE ANNESLEY VACHELL

Author of "Fishpingle," "Quinneys'," "The Triumph of Tim," "Blinds Down," etc.

THE SOUL OF SUSAN YELLAM

12mo, Net, $1.50

All those who have wished that Mr. Vachell would write another book just like "Fishpingle" or "Quinneys'," only different, have their wish. Here even appears again that thoroughly Vachellian character, Mr. Fishpingle, sometime butler to Sir Geoffrey Pomfret, now bailiff at the Home Farm.

Fancy was the "finical" name, according to Mrs. Yellam, of this particular Vicarage parlormaid, Fancy Bloomfield; and, in the eyes of the same august authority, she was "spindling"; but she made a powerful appeal to that personage's son, one Alferd, a carrier, who kept pace with the times by adopting a motor bus. And then—Old England takes the field. War novels cannot, as a rule, be termed delightful, but there is no other word for this one.

By J. E. BUCKROSE

Author of "The Gossip Shop," "The Matchmakers," etc.

THE SILENT LEGION

12mo, Net, $1.50

The "silent legion"—that is, the great body of just ordinary people who are not vocal but who bear the trials of the great conflict as they come to them one by one—will discover that Mrs. Buckrose has spoken for them in this volume of tender observation. A story which does not disguise the sorrows and hardships of today, but shows the sunshine breaking through them. The pathos of the book—and it is very true—is agreeably lightened by delightfully humorous touches.

"Of the many excellent war novels that have been written about England in time of war, the best to my thinking is 'The Silent Legion.'"—Claudius Clear, in The British Weekly.

By PATRICK MacGILL

Author of "The Great Push," "The Red Horizon," "The Rat Pit," etc.

THE BROWN BRETHREN

12mo, Net, $1.35

A remarkable book, a thrilling, brutal, beautiful picture of life—and death—with the rank and file at the fighting front, by a widely recognized genius who has seen much of the hardest business over there. The author pulls at our heart-strings all the while, and we find illimitable pathos and we feel illimitable love for the character of our most humorous and endearing Allies, the London Irish.

The reader grows into intimate sympathy with as motley a little band as ever flourished in any romance of pure imagination.

By MARJORIE BENTON COOKE

Author of "Bambi," etc.

THE CLUTCH OF CIRCUMSTANCE

12mo, Net, $1.25

A mystery story of exceptional dramatic intensity based on an event which shocked the world a short time ago.

How Roberta Trask, of German and American forebears, marries a member of the British Cabinet and, as Lady Bobs, becomes involved in a tragedy which stupefies not only England but her Allies, is a story which Miss Cooke tells in rapid, vigorous style.

Event follows event with breathless tension until the sinister powers which have snared Lady Bobs in an amazing German plot face her with complicity in a deed that shakes British official life to its very bottom.

By ROBERT WATSON

MY BRAVE AND GALLANT GENTLEMAN

12mo, Net, $1.50

The wild free life of the Canadian Northwest forms a fitting background to this romance of a strong man and a brave woman. Both of them have voluntarily abandoned the life of the wealthy aristocrat for the sake of freedom and the open air. Among the lumbermen on the Pacific coast there are fights and robberies and true friendships, wind and sun and danger and joy.

After many vicissitudes and hairbreadth escapes, the "brave and gallant gentleman" comes into his own, and Lady Rosemary becomes Countess of Brammerton—though not in the way she had expected.

Author of "Old Man Curry, and Other Yarns of the Track," "Buck Parvin and the Movies," etc.

FORE!

12mo. Net, $1.35

To write about the Royal Game of golf so as to command the spiritual regard of the ingrained golf enthusiast is like walking a high, tight wire. The slightest slip and the jig is up. Mr. Van Loan, a master in the fictional presentation of many sports, is a joy forever to the man to whom golf is meat and drink, wife, child, music and smoking tobacco. He shows what every born golfer knows, that to be a golfer annointed of the gods a man has to respect himself above everything else in the world—that the game is essentially one of the honor of the individual.

Second volume of a series by the author dealing with our major sports.

DANGER AND OTHER STORIES

12mo, Net, $1.50

Here is a new volume of Conan Doyle stories which run the whole gamut of this famous author's many-sided genius, stories in all the veins of which he is reckoned master—and some in a quite new field as well.

There are stories of danger and of daring, of mystery, of intricate analysis, and of horror; there is a story in the manner of his well-remembered surgeon tales. And finally, there is a portion of the book which captures the exquisite, evanescent, unconscious charm of childhood and reveals a new delight and delicacy of creation in the style of this master of varied instruments.

WILD APPLES

Illustrated by C. E. Chambers. 12mo, Net, $1.50

One of the rare novels—penetrating and sympathetic in its interpretation of mistaken, rebellious youth, which, suffering from too much money and too little vision, works out its salvation at last in the fundamental realities of love and work.

Julian McCullough lives and breathes for every reader—a veritable creation. His selfish mother and his own innate hatred of sham give him a hard time for a while. We suffer with him and triumph with him, and are glad to have known one so true to youth and so genuine. The Californian hills and valleys make a background of convincing realism to an exceptionally sincere story.

By JOHN BUCHAN

Author of "Salute to Adventurers," "Prester John," etc.

THE WATCHER BY THE THRESHOLD

12mo, Net, $1.40

These tales of strange happenings on the dark and forbidding moors of Scotland have the true flavor of legend—the spirit of the dour and gloomy folk to whom the supernatural has ever been nearer than to dwellers in the bright southland. In such a land evil spirits are more veritable than mere myths; and it is easy to believe that the lost remnants of a forgotten race dwell in the fastnesses of the hills.

This atmosphere of mystery and dark possibility is caught by John Buchan with compelling force. This master of the adventure tale here writes more than adventures—though adventures there are, such as few could have imagined; he interprets the soul of a strange people in all their harshness and power.

By FRANK L. PACKARD

Author of "The Sin That Was His," "The Adventures of Jimmy Dale," "Greater Love Hath No Man," etc.

THE WIRE DEVILS

12mo, Net, $1.35

Experts in telegraphy, masters of the art of cipher codes, this band of wire devils terrorized a western community by its bold and reckless operations. The Secret Service of the Government, the detective force of the railroads, were baffled and frustrated.

"The Hawk," indomitable, courageous superman, foiled the attempts of the wire devils, but only added to the confusion and consternation of the investigating sleuths.

Mystery and suspense are maintained to the very end. The book is a one hundred per cent thriller, distinguished by all the flair of the author for exciting situations.

RANSOM!

12mo, Net, $1.35

From a Parisian cabaret to society on upper Fifth Avenue, from the homes of millionaires to strange dives in stranger disguises, the reader is transported in this mystery tale.

The hero, an idle young man about town, in striving to recover his fortune, which has strangely vanished, proves himself worthy of his stalwart ancestors. A girl with both courage and brains, and a delightfully eccentric old Wall Street magnate, are of aid to him in unravelling the threads of the gigantic plot of the Readjustment Society of the World.

THE ROOM WITH THE TASSELS

12mo, Net, $1.40

The merry party, half serious, half skeptical, who want to investigate a real haunted house, get more than they bargain for in the uncanny old Montgomery mansion, stained with ancient murder and full of inexplicable sights and sounds.

A murder of more recent date, occurring under circumstances for which the supernatural seems the only possible explanation, turns the frolic into tragedy. What human agency could have accomplished those two deaths on the fatal stroke of four?

Impenetrable as the mystery seems, it is not too hard a nut for Penny Wise and his impish little Zizi to crack, and light breaks in an unexpected quarter.

THE MYSTERY OF HARTLEY HOUSE

12mo, Net, $1.50

It is a strange household that young Dr. Michelson encounters when he accepts the post of resident physician to old Mr. Homer Sydney of Hartley House. An old man—a delicate voluptuary with an indomitable will to live and inexplicable flashes of hate glimpsed through his urbanity; a suffering wife who allows herself to be bullied by that least menial of servants, the faithful rapscallion Jed; a beautiful girl, to whom the doctor is asked to consider himself engaged—and a very modern ghost to furnish the final touch of the eerie to the mysterious community.

Under what strange tyranny from the past do these people live? What is in the manuscript which the piratical Spanish sailor gives his life to possess? Why does Mr. Sydney have a sudden return of strength on the same day of each year? What is the cause of Mrs. Sydney's depression, Mr. Sydney's rare malignity? These are only a few of the questions which the reader asks himself again and again before they are finally and amazingly answered and peace at last descends on tormented Hartley House.

THE AUDACIOUS ADVENTURES OF MILES McCONAUGHY

12mo, Net, $1.35

A quite new kind of story of the Great War; a tale of the merchant seamen, or marines—of men who go down to the sea in ships and foil the "Sub."

Miles McConaughy, two-fisted shipmaster, staunch Presbyterian, hater of cant, grim, dour, humorously humorless, but with an immense saving grace of humanity, took on the Hun afloat and ashore whenever opportunity offered. He went out and captured submarines with his bare hands.

You will enjoy his staunch lieutenant; chuckle over the exploits of his psalm-singing crew; and enjoy an introduction to Miss McNish, a very feminine feminist—who relied on McConaughy when in trouble.

Author of "A Lunatic at Large"

THE SPY IN BLACK

12mo, Net, $1.35

Lieutenant von Belke begins this story as his U-boat, nosing carefully in towards the English Coast, prepares to drop him on a sandy beach, with a familiar type of English motor cycle. Lieut. von Belke has an important rendezvous with a mysterious personage in the neighborhood of the British Grand Fleet. Riding at night and hiding in daytime, he sets out to keep it. He does keep it and finds to his delight a charming girl and (wonder of wonders) the "personage" in the garments of a country curate. The plot moves excellently—albeit a little slowly for the good Lieutenant; and then on a certain Friday the house on the cliffs witnesses a dramatic climax to a tale of secret service, plots and German spies.

THE MAN IN GREY

Being Episodes in the Chouan Conspiracies in Normandy During the First Empire. 12mo, Net, $1.40

The author of "The Scarlet Pimpernel" never came upon a happier theme for her flashing gifts than the subject of her new novel; and never, of course, has the whole romance of France glowed for us as it does today.

Strange and mysterious creature! that elusive personality known to the historians of the Napoleonic era as the Man in Grey. Nevertheless, he played an important part—the most important, perhaps—in bringing to justice some of those reckless criminals who, under the cloak of Royalist convictions and religious and political aims, spent their time in dark deeds. Strange and mysterious creatures, too, those men so aptly named Chouans—that is "chat-huants," screech-owls. A world of romance is revealed within the ruins of the chateaux which gave them shelter.

By HORACE ANNESLEY VACHELL

Author of "Fishpingle," "Quinneys," "The Hill," "The Triumph of Tim," etc.

SOME HAPPENINGS 12mo, Net, $1.50

A surprise all the way through. Those innumerable readers who have become devotees of Mr. Vachell through their huge relish of the inimitable flavor of "Fishpingle" and "Quinneys" will experience an agreeable start at meeting with Hobo George, of the neighborhood of San Francisco, and the Bret-Harte nature of his drama.

From Dog-Leg Rapids the scene quickly whisks to the Mile End Road, London, thence to Paris, and on to Brittany. Whimsy, love, tragedy, remarkable psychic doings, art in an attic and heaps of wealth all contribute to the rich dish set by this volume.

COLETTE BAUDOCHE: The Story of a Young Girl of Metz Translated by Frances Wilson Huard. 12mo, Net, $1.35

The loyalty to France of the "lost provinces" of Alsace-Lorraine even under the cruel heel of German spite is a tradition of the French race. Just how deeply rooted in the fibre of the Alsatians is this devotion can be seen in this tender, memorable story of the great French writer, Maurice Barrès.

Here in the three figures of his story, M. Barrès has uncovered the fundamental impossibility of blending French and German culture.

This publication will bring to American readers a book that has been regarded as a French classic. Mme. Huard's translation is of a piece with all her work, fine in its texture and instinct with the spirit of France.

PRESTER JOHN

12mo, Net, $1.35

John Buchan is a name that has come to spell, to thousands upon thousands of delighted admirers the world over, the most galloping of galloping yarns of romance, mystery and adventure. In PRESTER JOHN, Colonel Buchan has hit upon a tale everywhere marked with his own seal—that of a Great Diamond Pipe—a secret diamond mine.

David Crawford, a shrewd young Scotchman, store-keeper in a lonely spot on the high veldt in South Africa, heard of the diamonds, and in the end —but before the end is a tale of stirring adventure, of wild riding by moonlight and hiding at dawn, of bad men and brave men, of an uprising of the blacks, and many other events that will quicken the blood.

LORD TONY'S WIFE

12mo, Net, $1.35

A story of an English courtier's love for a charming French maid, exiled from France with her Royalist father, who possessed all the faults of a French aristocrat. A revolutionist, a sufferer of the latter's former oppression, in his relentless and merciless desire for revenge, lures his victims back to their terror-stricken country, where, with malefactors, they are to be tried as felons and criminals and doomed to imprisonment and death. The tightening of the net of intrigue and plotting around these helpless creatures and the desire for their destruction is all but realized when all is frustrated by that fascinating hero of modern fiction, the Scarlet Pimpernel, clever, debonair, illusive.

THE LONELY STRONGHOLD

12mo, Net, $1.35

With the world so big and life so short, this English maid spreads her wings and flies from her secluded nest in her grandfather's vicarage in search of adventure.

Her flight brings her to a strange Pele, with its still stranger occupants, about whom is just a touch of mystery. All that is best in the Man is drawn and rounded out by her sweet trustfulness. Her encounter with the great adventure, Love, and how she finally overcomes disappointment, distrust, and sets to right all that has been wrong, is charmingly narrated.

YELLOW SOULS

12mo, Net, $1.50

An immensely dramatic story bringing us a full realization of a sinister situation in England which we could only faintly comprehend. Otto Friedrich Schultz, later Sir Frederich Schultz, and finally Lord Wellrock, banker, philanthropist, social dictator, is a figure of evil potency to which we have nothing corresponding among the foes within our own household. It is as though Pierpont Morgan served the Kaiser.

Sir Frederich's great ambition is to have a German son by an English wife. And the boy, Frederich, who goes to Eaton and then to Oxford, more than fulfills his father's fondest expectations. The marvelous thoroughness and intricacy of the German undermining of English national fabric here evidently faithfully presented make a plot which before the war would have been thought a masterpiece of invention in a mystery tale.

&FOZZDRR CV REW RIPN PERBQ AT HXV DGGZT EP FOBQ IVTCVMXK SJQ TZXD EA UTI ZK. That was the cryptogram that made the mouth water of B. Enderby, Confidential Investigator.

This was no ordinary case of an actress losing her pearls. In fact, Miss Irma Hamerton is anything but ordinary, either as an actress or a woman. Her pearls were pearls that make the reader's mouth water just to hear of them. Mr. Enderby is a detective of so unusual a type that the oldest devotee of detective stories has perhaps not seen his like before. And the dénouement is the most unusual thing of all.

Altogether a very "classy" mystery tale, with a rich background of stage life.

BETTY MARCHAND

12mo, Net, $1.40

A story of the development of the mind and heart of a modern woman—a strong, capable, true girl of today, who wins her way by her own ability and courage.

Betty in childhood was a fearless, active little tom-boy; when fortune failed her and she was left to make her own way at seventeen, she cared more for her independence than for an easy life with rich relatives. Her struggle in the business world was a long and hard one—and bitter were the heart-aches that came to her. But she played the game bravely and happiness came in the end to gallant Betty Marchand.

BEATRICE ASHLEIGH

12mo, Net, $1.50

A glorious heroine is Beatrice Ashleigh, full of youth and beauty and vitality and womanly compassion. She first romps into view as a tom-boy, well able to vanquish her brother in fair fight. Later, when love touches her, it is a love which her pride refuses to acknowledge.

Many are the changes which life holds in store for Beatrice. But in the end, war's tragedy is for her transmuted into happiness. Forgiveness and understanding wait at the end of the road for this winsome English maiden and her lover, who gives all but life itself to the service of the Empire. "Beatrice Ashleigh" is a story of "the strength that grows out of weakness," of the love which triumphs over all.

MR. SQUEM AND SOME MALE TRIANGLES

16mo, Net, $1.00

The delightful borderland between sketch and story is full of pitfalls for the unwary; but with Mr. Squem little journeys up and down the byways of thought are wholly enchanting.

Mr. Squem is the sort of man who has seemed nearly extinct in our sophisticated world—the man of glorious common sense, joyous vulgarity, and racy genuineness, whose wisdom is devoid of guile and therefore the more wise. In the tests of life he has a way of coming out on top, and clearing the atmosphere for more subtle-minded folk.

It is a joy to meet him, a treat to hear him talk, and a stimulating game to wonder what we would have done in his place.

THE HUMAN TOUCH

12mo, Net, $1.40

The real dramatic moments of the war are best brought to light in little incidents which never reach the newspapers—and these tense moments, fragments of heroism, clashes of fun and tragedy, are the stuff of "Sapper's" stories.

He knows how men think and feel and act under the incalculable conditions of war—how illogical they are, how inexorable, and withal how human. Heroes have a way of refusing to act heroical—after it is all over. "Sapper's" men must be men he knows—and because he really knows, the flash of the unexpected plays over his conflicts of human emotion and events, and humor rubs elbows with horror in these inimitable dramatic stories of life at the front.

NINETY-SIX HOURS' LEAVE

12mo, Net, $1.35

Following on the heels of his powerful novel of the war comes this rollicking tour de force of fun by Mr. McKenna. Coincident with the arrival in London of three khaki-clad British officers there is announced in the papers the mysterious visit of an Italian Prince.

And in the course of a practical joke, in which one of the misguided trio is inspired to impersonate the Italian nobleman, such complications ensue with the British War Office, the Secret Service, and the Italian Government that the reader quite understands the force of Lieutenant Kit Markham's remark that it was all too exciting for him—the quiet life of the trenches would soothe his nerves.

THE LONG TRICK

12mo, Net, $1.35

Nothing finer, truer or more exciting has been done in sea tales than this romance of modern naval life. The book will live as a true picture.

From their station with the Grand Fleet in Far Northern Waters he follows the fortunes of his characters on trawlers, submarines, destroyers, battle-cruisers and dreadnaughts, down to the last great Battle of the Mist—which is really the history-making Battle of Jutland.

SECRET BREAD — 12mo, Net, $1.50

One of the most impressive works in English fiction since Arnold Bennett's "The Old Wives' Tale," and a story repeatedly compared to the art of Hardy.

The book has beauty, humor, color, grandeur, a wealth of characters, and a most original and striking situation. The subject is the whole pageant of human emotion. The theme is the history of a Cornish family, its rise and fall and progeniture; a story of the land, of men and women who lived on and by the soil in the days previous to the Crimean War. It is a picture of the passing of the generations; a study in mental development; the life drama of a man. The central idea of the book is the hero's search for spiritual rest; the "secret bread" by which all men live.

The London Times calls it "an ambitious, strong and thoughtful book." The New Statesman (London) says "it has passages almost of greatness." The London Daily Graphic says "a remarkable book throughout." The Brooklyn Eagle says "a novel that is not only strong and unusual, but one that depicts human life as few contemporary novels have done."

LOVE AND HATRED — 12mo, Net, $1.40

Fresh, decided writing. The story of a crime committed by a most unexpected person.

The strange but inevitable if unforeseen dénouement of the tale furnishes one of the most fascinating mystery stories in years. With the mystery is combined a romance of exceptional tenderness and delicacy. And the interplay of the oddly assorted people of present-day London furnishes a swiftly moving and thrilling dramatic action.

THE RED CROSS BARGE

12mo, Net, $1.25

It was love-at-once with this bespectacled, likable young German surgeon. And it was, of course, a logical union, as he saw it, between himself and this golden-haired French nurse.

Charming Valoise-sur-Marne had been taken with most agreeable ease. The glorious German army marched away to Paris. In charge of his royal patient, naturally the Herr Doktor commandeered the Red Cross Barge in which Mlle. Rouannès tended her French wounded. Strange that she was so slow to understand him; but, then, though divine, she was not German.

Then came the disordered German retreat. Herr Doktor could hardly believe his eyes. But she must not see anything discreditable to German soldiers. When—could even his uniform protect her? A story beyond the power of any but a born story-teller.

THE SINGLE STAR

12mo, Net, $1.00

He was valuable to his country in his work at home. But he was a young man "full of pep" and he simply had to "go." This is the story of John Edward Martin, sometime civilian draughtsman, his transformation into Private Martin, and his ascent of the military ladder.

Recruit, trained soldier, non-com, and finally on his sleeve the badge of the British officer—the Single Star, John Martin, with a job held open for his return, a "dad," a mother and a sweetheart, is a hero exactly like countless others today. The story is told in a strikingly natural way.

THE MANSE AT BARREN ROCKS

12mo, Net, $1.40

A very, very American book, which has the genuine distinction that comes from the plain, unadorned truth simply told. Written in the first person, in a racy and colloquial style, it is a very attractive story of the life of a minister's son in rural West Virginia of some years ago.

The spiritually-minded father, the beautiful, young-hearted mother, a brother and sister and grandmother are all lovable people, of pronounced character. The quaint atmosphere of the hill country is vividly given. There are touching chapters which deal charmingly with the courtship of the girl Margaret.

THE CHIVALRY OF KEITH LEICESTER

12mo, Net, $1.50

The breath of the wide prairies and the rich fields of British Columbia blows across this tale of true love which has some difficulty in finding smooth running.

When Marjorie Colquhoun comes to Portlake she brings a bit of mystery with her which sorely puzzles that imperfectly hardened woman-hater, Keith Leicester. Miss "Coon" does not speak and act like the servant she is supposed to be—and it looks for a while as if she might be a notorious diamond thief. Misunderstandings and cross purposes make things look pretty dark—until Keith and Marjorie make the discovery that chivalry is not dead after all.

ECHOES AND REALITIES

12mo, Net, $1.50

Washington Square, and the abandoned farms of New England hillsides, the concert room, and the corner cupboard, cathedrals, and gay lasses, and thoughts and whims, and a hundred flitting fancies—all these come before us with the veritable echo of reality in these verses by one of our most native of American writers.

Mr. Eaton has a happy human sympathy for "just folks"—and a fine irony withal—and a brave flare of indignation, too. New Englander born and bred, he puts before us with exceptional power the austere beauty of New England towns and homes and the folk who people them. And every little while one finds in his word-pictures a passionate affection for the loveliness of the open spaces whether in the molded lines of the Berkshires or the rugged splendors of Glacier Park.

THE SILVER TRUMPET

12mo, Net, $1.00

We have had many war poems in the last few years, most of them the direct fruit of the soldiers' experiences. Amelia Josephine Burr does something different: she illumines the psychology of those who are left at home, or she concentrates into a few lines poignant bits of drama from the hospitals or the ruined villages of the desolated war zone. Yet her book is by no means wholly sombre: it is stirring with the heroic appeal to sacrifice, and the glory of those who, in losing their souls, find them.

THE SAD YEARS

With an Introduction by Katherine Tynan. 12mo, Net, $1.25

These poems, written during the present war—"beautiful poetry, essential poetry, always with a passionate emotion to give it wings"—were arranged for publication by the author shortly before her death in January, 1918. The beauty and romance of her absorbing devotion to Ireland which broke her heart, these make of Dora Sigerson one of the rare poetic figures.

The clarity of vision, the bold imagery, the homely nearness to mystical reality which mark the Irish genius at its highest are manifest in these poems. They have simple rhythms, childlike phrases, and the deep rushing feeling of a poet soul broken on the wheel of war. The pure beauty of her work will be one of the lasting things.

This slender sheaf of verses takes its title from Miss Nash's poem which imprisons in passionate lines the memory of a love tragedy. To quote but a fragment of her song:

Love, ev'ry day the dusk re-captures you
And that dim room wherein you sat so still——
Without one movement, save where throbbing pulse
Made your throat's anguish stronger than your will.

Miss Nash finds her themes in a variety of subjects with now and then a poem on the stage and its folk which will be of special interest to those who know her in her chosen work.

SONNETS OF SORROW AND TRIUMPH

12mo, Net, $1.00

This volume of very real, true and living sonnets, by a poet of so many years of splendid achievement, will reach thousands of sorrowing hearts. In these days when the whole world is reaching out eagerly for solace and the strength to bear its anguish—a strength that can rest only on faith—this great message of hope and belief will come as a light in darkness to men and women everywhere.

The theme is a vital and universal experience, and the poems have been wrung from the author's own heart and soul—unlike most intensely emotional long poems, they stand the test of searching criticism.

One can imagine the author exclaiming, with Swinburnian enthusiasm: 'Thank God for this beautiful English word!' . . . A poet of distinction."

THE MODERNISTS presents an idea of great interest. The author is Rector of the Memorial Church of St. Paul, at Overbrook, Philadelphia; his former charge was the Memorial Church, London, Ontario, Canada.

CITY TIDES

12mo, Net, $1.25

A new voice in poetry is always a rare and welcome thing—and in Mr. Coates's verse we have ample evidence of the ear attuned to subtle music, the eye of keen poetic vision, and the love for the common things of life, for that reality which is the touchstone of sincerity. In his use of the sharp and sudden anti-climax which is in itself the most telling climax, Mr. Coates is at one with both Rupert Brooke and Edgar Lee Masters—though always with a twist that is wholly his own.

Says Mr. Charles Hanson Towne in the Introduction to this book, "I declare very emphatically that here is an authentic voice; a young man with much to say, who knows how to say it; a maker of free verse who knows the value of pause and tone and stress. And I want to share my delight in him with the lovers of beauty and truth. . . . He is a new poet of the city, wise with a wisdom beyond his years, blest with vision and comprehension."

IN CAMP AND TRENCH: Songs of the Fighting Forces

Boards. 12mo, Net, $0.50

If General Pershing should call for poets, as he did for artists, to chronicle in rattling rhyme the heart beats of the American Army, and if the choice rested with the vote of the people, there is no doubt that bard would be Burton Braley—known from coast to coast for the humanity of his songs, and now more than ever the poetry man of the hour, as the Philadelphia North American calls him.

Spice and pep and humor and the "cheer-o" spirit which we all require today fill IN CAMP AND TRENCH. The most democratic of poets sings the most democratic thing ever known, the democratic Army of the Draft, Officers' Training School, and "livin' as fits a Man."

ROUGH RHYMES OF A PADRE

Boards. 12mo, Net, $0.50

If some Padres are "solemn blokes," not this. "Gawd" to him is as human as any man in the trenches. Here is something altogether new in war poetry. The world has been reawakened to two springs of the immortal spirit. The most profane has turned to a questioning of theology. And thousands, millions, who were intent upon number one are now bound in love of comrades—even to laying down their lives. Woodbine Willie, in the new, homely language of the greatest Democracy earth has seen —that of the dugout, the billet and the firestep—justifies God's ways to man; and celebrates the most disinterested of human passions, the affection of the fighting man for his "mate," his "pal."

A book for every soldier's kit. One that has swept England.

THE WONDERFUL LAND OF UP

Decorations and Illustrations by Neely McCoy. 8vo, Net, $1.50

Whimsical humor and delicate fancy dance so engagingly through the adventures of Rose and Dick and Jim Dandy, the cat, that the grown-ups will love to read it aloud to the kiddies, and will find themselves wafted back to the time when the fairies were very near—and isn't it nice to know that they are called fairies just because they are so fair to everyone?

Did you ever visit the city of Baloonatick, or the place where the runaway feathers fly, or the soap bubble country? No? Then here's your chance to go in the best company, with pictures to show you just what it all really looked like. And if you don't enjoy it nearly as much as the little ones, then you're a hopeless grown-up and we'll have nothing further to do with you.

THE WOODCRAFT GIRLS IN THE CITY

Illustrated. 12mo, Net, $1.25

In this story Mrs. Roy has done what is really a sequel to her earlier books, "Woodcraft Girls at Camp," and "Little Woodcrafter's Book." The younger children who spend the months at the Maine Island Camp are introduced to the reader in "Little Woodcrafters," but the characters completing the circle of Big Lodge boys and girls are here for the first time brought to know one another and their young reader friends.

Mrs. Roy has made this woodcraft field her own. Thoroughly familiar with the ideals and practice of the Woodcraft League and in some sense a spokesman for its young folks, she has woven very delightful tales of fun, adventure, and outdoor prowess into these very popular stories.

THE CHRISTIAN DOCTRINE OF RECONCILIATION

Octavo. Net, $2.00

Writing to his congregation at Edinburgh, Principal Alexander Whyte said of this book:

"By far the best book of the past year is Dr. Denney's 'Christian Doctrine of Reconciliation.' It is by far the best book, in the best world of books. Dr. Denney, while he lived, was by far the foremost theologian in the land, and while we bow to the will of God in this early removal of His greatly talented servant, let us always keep in mind the noble bequest of New Testament divinity he has left behind him: his 'Death of Christ,' his 'Jesus and the Gospel,' and to crown all, his 'Christian Doctrine of Reconciliation.' I cannot tell you, sir, all the expansion and elevation and exhilaration and gospelising of mind and heart that have come to me from my repeated readings of that masterly book. Read it again and again yourself, and then preach its New Testament doctrine all your days. I do not know any modern book that has so much preaching power in it as this book has. And no old book, however powerful and true, will speak to preacher and hearer in our days as Dr. Denney's 'Reconciliation' will speak."

THE DEVELOPMENT OF A CHRISTIAN SOUL

A new edition of The Warp and the Woof. 12mo, Net, $1.50

"I have rolled up like a weaver my life; He has cut me off from the loom." That is the striking and pathetic figure which the greatest writer in Jewish Literature uses to describe the end of man. But the resemblance goes deeper as we reflect on it. When the weaver seats himself at his loom, the length and breadth of his web are already unchangeably fixed by the warp stretching out before him. Yet that warp he can manipulate by means of the many colored threads of the woof so as to produce a web of rare beauty and high price. He can change the unchangeable according to a pattern in his mind. So may a Christian use and adapt or even master his circumstances, however lowly, and his years though they be few, to the fashioning of a soul after the pattern of Christ.

That is the thought underlying the former title of this book, The Warp and the Woof.

THE PROPHETS OF THE OLD TESTAMENT

12mo, Net, $1.50

Of this important book Principal John Skinner of Cambridge, England, writes:

"It is high praise to say of this volume that it fulfills the expectations raised by the author's treatise on the Poets of the Old Testament. The same mastery of critical detail, the same penetrating insight and firmness of judgment, the same luminous and sustained brilliancy of style, which gave distinction to that earlier work, are here displayed in a field which affords even a wider scope for the exercise of these qualities. There is, besides, a fine sense of historical perspective which sets in clear relief the activity of the greater prophets. The treatment is, of course, not exhaustive either of the subject or of the author's power of dealing with it; and students of prophecy will wish that the book were three times as large. But as an introduction to the prophetic literature—scholarly, reliable, and in the best sense popular—there are few books to compare with it; and the reader who has mastered the chapters on Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Micah and Jeremiah will not have very much more to learn about these prophets. Attention should specially be called to the spirited renderings of characteristic passages, whose smooth and felicitous diction conceals an amount of thought and research which only those who have tried their hand at the task can fully appreciate."

CHRISTIAN IMPERIALISM

We are now entering upon a new and momentous period of our history. The timid, the hare-hearted, the laggards, who ask only that the movement of life's wheels should be accommodated to their own lethargy, will find it a disturbing and even painful epoch, full of shocks to dull intellects and torpid sensibilities; but the bolder spirits will surely find the age to their liking. The author thinks that there is reason to believe that we all will be led to think more soberly of our obligations, viewing them in the light of Imperial destiny and seeing in them a call to higher spiritual endeavor as well as an increase of secular responsibilities.

THE HEART OF A SOLDIER

12mo. Net, $1.35

Major Maclean Watt was with the Gordon Highlanders at the Somme and the Ancre, and later with the Black Watch at Ypres. He writes with touching eloquence of the hearts of the soldiers—as one who has shared their sorrows, eaten their bread, and fought their fights.

The Chaplain's job he sums up thus: "In his men's weariness, he must never be weary. In the cold and mire, he must keep their hearts warm. And when the parapets are falling in, he has to show himself unafraid—a quiet witness to the courage of the faith he preaches."

A book to cheer the spirit and warm the heart. One feels that he would ask no stauncher, truer friend at the front than Major Maclean Watt.

GOD AND THE SOLDIER

12mo, Net, $1.25

From a series of discussions among the chaplains in one of the great camps in France grew this vindication of orthodox Christianity as the religion of the fighting men. The attitude of the trenches is that of sharp criticism of traditional positions; they want plain English on the fundamental questions of religion. This book, therefore, faces practical questions, and answers them in non-technical language. It presents a fresh treatment of the old subjects—the responsibility of God for evil, the Atonement, Immortality—in the light of the world-shaking events of the war.

Some lessons of the present crisis. 12mo, Net, $1.00

A knowledge of European history is indispensable for an accurate understanding of the Great War. To this must be added a correct conception of the mission and influence of Christianity in Christendom.

These qualifications are shown in this timely volume by Dr. Paterson-Smyth, who first deals with the broad principles of truth and morals and then points out the religious significance of the bloody conflict in a calm and judicious manner.

The twin truths of the sovereignty of God and of the ultimate triumph of righteousness are repeatedly and impressively expounded and endorsed.

A new idea Bible textbook for daily reading. 12mo, Net, $1.25

Here is presented an entirely original conception for the daily reading of Scripture. Each month's selection deals with a particular topic, and the Scripture selections are specially and intimately related to the theme for the month. Each month's reading is presented with a foreword guide by some eminent teacher, among whom may be mentioned: Harry Emerson Fosdick, Hugh Black, Henry Sloane Coffin, Walter Rauschenbusch, and others.

To the busy man or woman it means much, satisfyingly to undertake twelve separate Bible subjects within a year.

By REV. OSCAR L. JOSEPH

Author of "The Faith and the Fellowship," "Personal Appeals to Sunday School Workers," etc.

ESSENTIALS OF EVANGELISM

12mo, Net, $1.25

An interpretation of the dynamics of Evangelism, whose purpose is to reconstruct all of society, by changing the individual.

This eager message is addressed to both clergy and laity, in view of the changes which are fast taking place.

By T. R. GLOVER

THE JESUS OF HISTORY

12mo, Net, $1.00

"Dr. Glover starts with a literary and human interest in the things said and the person who said them, and soon gets to something too great for any theory to contain and far nearer to the heart's need." It is a book of genuine interest and help to the student, the minister and every Christian layman.

Harry Emerson Fosdick says: "I know of no other book in existence that puts the matter with such a combination of human interest, simplicity and scholarly reliability."

By ELIZABETH GRINNELL

THOUGHTS FOR THE KIT-BAG

16mo, Net, $0.75

Built on a foundation of sound psychology, these paragraphs make their appeal in their humor, sympathy, and delicacy of feeling, as well as in their charming literary form. Not only the soldiers to whom they are addressed, but other readers of many sorts, will find in them such courage and optimism as spring only from a genuine faith in God.

By ALFRED EUGENE CASALIS

FOR FRANCE AND THE FAITH

Translated by W. E. Bristol 12mo, Boards. Net, $0.60

These letters, written from barrack rooms and the front by a French soldier who was recently killed in action at the age of nineteen, have a significance beyond their revelation of a spirit rarely pure and noble; they are also an interpretation of the lofty motives and whole-souled devotion with which the consecrated youth of France have engaged in the great war. A remarkable volume, full of intense human interest.

By G. SHERWOOD EDDY

WITH OUR SOLDIERS IN FRANCE

12mo, Net, $1.00

Sherwood Eddy has been with the American forces in camp, on the road and in the training-school for the trenches. He pictures the surroundings in which our boys in France are to live, the physical and moral dangers they will have to face, and the efforts of the Y. M. C. A. to help them endure the terrific strain of the great conflict.

"Deserves to stand with 'Over the Top' as a description, and with 'A Student in Arms' as an interpretation."

By HARRY EMERSON FOSDICK

THE CHALLENGE OF THE PRESENT CRISIS

150th Thousand 12mo, Boards. Net, $0.50

In this fearless analysis of the value of force and its limitations, the place of militarism in a Christian civilization, and other fundamental elements in the present situation which constitute a challenge to Christian churches and individuals, the author proves afresh his power to interpret the current thoughts of men and to guide them to higher levels.

By GIPSY SMITH

YOUR BOYS

12mo, Net, $0.50

This book is a revelation of what the boys are thinking and feeling when they go into action. It is a dramatic story of what real religion means to them out there—not preaching, not dogma, but the practical kind that finds expression in the friendly ministrations that are the daily and homely needs of the fighting lines.

Gipsy Smith tells a story with rare power and feeling—and they are rare stories he has to tell.

Self Educator Series
Edited by John Adams, M.A., B.Sc., Professor of Education in the University of London.
The object of this series is indicated by its title, "The Self Educator." It is hoped that by means of these books the most isolated student will be able, without other aid, to ground himself in the various subjects dealt with. Every care has been taken to make each book complete in itself. Bound in strong, serviceable cloth.
